Two in hospital after fire

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

A young Venice mother rescued her seven-month-old infant from a blazing mobile home Tuesday, after first guiding her two young sons to safety.

Mrs. Gilda McGuire, 23, of 1220 Douglas Ave., pushed her two sons outside the home, where a fire had started in the living room at 11:50 a.m. Tuesday.

The blaze quickly engulfed the dwelling and also destroyed a single-story house next door.

After getting Cameron, four years old, and Tyson, two years, outside, Mrs. McGuire attempted to return for her daughter, Latanya, seven months, but the dense smoke and flames forced her back outdoors.

"I ran around the side of the trailer and a neighbor smashed a window and opened the other door," she recounted yesterday.

"He went inside, but came back and said he couldn't find Latanya, so I went in."

Mrs. McGuire entered the mobile home, groped her way through the smoke and fire to the living room, and found her daughter, carrying her to safety.

At this point, the Venice volunteer fire department arrived.

The infant was immediately examined by Fireman Jerry Suggs, a trained emergency medical technician, and the mother and child were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mrs. McGuire and Latanya, neither of whom suffered burns, were treated for smoke inhalation. Today, they are in Efforts to keep the fire from spreading from the blazing mobile home (foreground) of Mrs. Gilda McGuire failed and a few moments later the house was consumed in flames (related photos on Page 21). Mrs. McGuire reentered the burning mobile home after guiding two young sons to safety and rescued her seven-month-old daughter, Latanya. The mother and child suffered smoke inhalation and were admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Groups of five families can get fire protection

Homes burning to the ground while nearby firemen watch or ignore pleas for help are tragedies which can easily be avoided, State Rep. Everett Steele (R-Glen Carbon), said Tuesday after learning of a fire on Chouteau Island which routed eight persons from their two-story home.

Mitchell volunteer firemen responded last week to a fire at the home of James A. Brinker on the southern half of Chouteau Island, but stopped about one-half-mile south of Chain of Rocks Road as they got to the fire district boundary.

All the Brinkers could do was watch as fire destroyed all of their belongings and clothing, which were not insured. Only a piano was saved. The two-story home was destroyed.

State police were told the home was in "a no-man's land," outside of any fire district, and no one responded to help save the family's belongings or home.

"It is very sad when this happens, but we have been doing a great deal of work recently to get people assigned to fire districts," Steele said.

A bill which he sponsored became law last year. It gives the state fire marshal authority to assign properties not in fire districts to the nearest non-municipal fire department on a fee basis.

"The law says simply that a petition signed by any five homeowners in an area seeking assignment to a fire department need only be submitted to the state fire marshal, who then is to assign that area to a fire department for a two-year period," Steele said.

The law calls for persons so assigned to a fire department to pay $250 to $300 for each fire call to their homes.

After two or three years of assignment to a department, the fire marshal is to call for a referendum in the area so residents may vote on whether to join a fire protection district

Boy critical in GC fire today

Two-year-old Lonnie Gordon is in critical condition in the intensive care unit of Cardinal Glennon Hospital, St. Louis, and 2-year-old Ginger Lou Sanders is reported in stable condition at the same hospital after fire swept through a four-apartment building at 2020 and 2022 Grand Ave., at 6 a.m. today.

Firemen were told Mrs. Barbara Sanders, who resides upstairs at 2020 Grand Ave., was babysitting for her daughter Ginger, and for two children of Ben and Peggy Gordon, who resided in the downstairs apartment at that address, while Mrs. Gordon was in St. Elizabeth Hospital after giving birth to another baby at 7:40 p.m. Wednesday.

An electric space heater in the Gordon's apartment bathroom was believed left on and short-circuited when water dripped on it from the sink, causing the fire.

Flames spread from the downstairs bathroom to the upstairs bathroom and then into the Sanders' apartment where Mrs. Sanders and the three children were sleeping.

Mrs. Sanders awoke in dense

Repairs may end

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

The loss of $270,000 in Community Development funds for repair of broken sanitary sewers in the Nameoki area may force a complete shutdown of the city's sewer repair division until alternate financing becomes available, it was disclosed at a regular meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

The sewer division was established one and a half years ago to undertake repair of broken sewer lines with city labor and equipment rather than let such jobs on a contract basis at high prices.

Council members, after discussing the problem for half an hour, voted to refer the matter to the council's Street and Alley Committee for a report and recommendations in the council's next meeting on Jan. 17.

Lionel Portell, superintendent of streets under whose direction the sewer division operates, told the aldermen that if there is any financial means to keep the repair program operating at this time, the work can be done at less cost than if the program is demobilized and then has to be mobilized again in the future.

The problem stems from new federal guidelines governing the use of Community Development funds which are set up on a three-year basis. Mayor Paul Schuler said the new guidelines establish five

Family uninsured

When tragedy strikes, it often hits with extra impact, as in the case of Monday night's fatal fire at the Jerry Gerkin mobile home in Jones Park, Pontoon Beach.

The father, 21, and his 2½-year-old son, Jerry Jr., both died in the blaze.

The wife and mother, Mrs. Cynthia Gerkin, 18, escaped through a broken window but is undergoing surgery for severe cuts that she suffered from the window glass.

The home was uninsured, and a large debt remains for the double-wide mobile structure.

Also lacking were employer insurance and funeral-burial coverage. Hospital-medical costs are expected to be extensive.

Provision of clothing and payment of utility bills is being handled by the Tri-Cities Area

Prevailing rate plan proposed for county

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

Responding to criticism that a suit he filed against the Madison County Board encourages non-union purchasing by the county, Madison County Board Member Daniel Partney of Granite City announced Wednesday afternoon that he intends to introduce an ordinance which would require all contractors working for the county and suppliers of materials to the county to pay the prevailing wage rate to their employees.

Partney said a suit he filed against other county board members challenging their awarding of a bid for repair of sheriff's department vehicles to a union shop "was not a union versus non-union issue."

He asserted the non-union shop which submitted the lowest repair bid had agreed to not oppose a union if it wished to organize, if the shop received the county contract.

Partney's suit, which is set for a Jan. 20 preliminary hearing in Madison County Circuit Court, assails 17 board members for turning down a bid

Assessor changes mind and will move

The Granite City Council, convened as the Town Board, Tuesday night unanimously approved a request by Von Dee Cruse, Granite City Township assessor, that he be permitted to move into the new township building at 21st Street and Delmar Avenue.

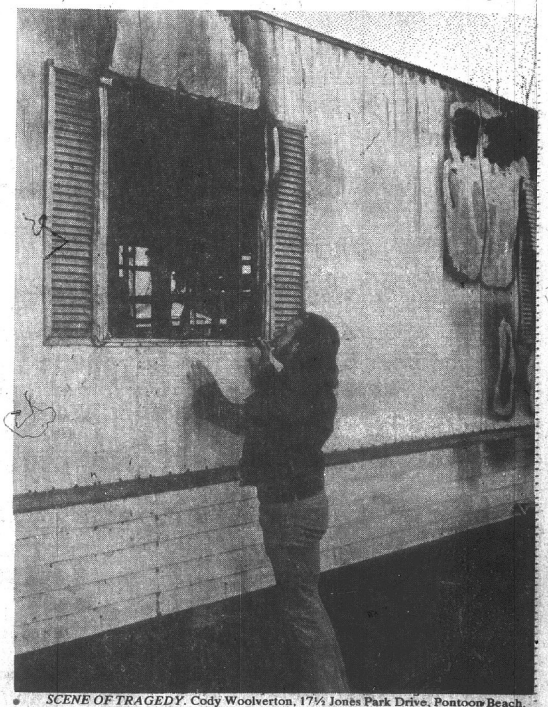

Cruse did not join other township agencies and the senior citizens in occupying the new building upon its completion last month, contending at that time that insufficient space had been provided for the assessor's office.

In speaking before the board, Cruse told the aldermen that "We could argue forever about whether there is enough space for us in the building. I think the only way to prove the point one way or another is for us to move in.

"I could be wrong about this, but so far I haven't changed my mind about there being enough space for us to operate. Time will tell if the facilities are ample," he said.

Cruse asked the board to approve a claim before it Tuesday night for payment of $375 rent for the month of January on the present

SCENE OF TRAGEDY. Cody Woolverton, 17½ Jones Park Drive, Pontoon Beach, examines the window Tuesday afternoon from which he and a friend, Monty Gordon, Roxana, pulled Mrs. Cynthia Gerkin to safety from her burning mobile home Monday night. Killed in the blaze which destroyed the home at 10½ Jones Park Drive were her husband, Jerry Sr., 21, and their 2½-year-old son, Jerry Jr. Woolverton's mobile home, adjacent to the Gerkin home, was slightly damaged by the fire, which caused paint to blister and windows to break. Woolverton, one of the first residents on the scene, was unable to help the others escape after rescuing Mrs. Gerkin because of the flames and intense heat.

10 issues face citizens in '78

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale agricultural economist Walter J. Wills is not greatly impressed by some of the optimistic state-of-the-economy pronouncements he's been hearing and reading lately.

Since it is a popular year-end diversion to knock out "ten best" or "top ten" lists (best dressed, best sellers, most admired, etc.), Wills has looked at 1978 in terms of what he sees as the ten most pressing economic problems.

For overactive post-New Year celebrants, it's likely to be sobering:

INFLATION—"All elements are present for double-digit inflation," Wills warns. "One thing that kept it from being worse in 1977 was the depressed farm price level resulting from relatively large world grain crops. A slight change in world weather conditions can alter the situation rapidly."

UNEMPLOYMENT—"It didn't change much in 1977 and there are few signs of further improvement. If more workers do not increase output enough to pay the cost of added labor, there is little inducement for more employment. Emphasis on a minimum work week and maximum fringe benefits, rather than greater productivity, is a basic problem."

FEDERAL DEBT—"There have been few years since World War II that the federal government has not spent more than it collected. This may have helped people get elected, but the day is rapidly approaching when we must pay the consequences of such free-spending actions.

"Government deficit financing adds fuel to inflationary forces in the economy."

U.S. TRADE DEFICIT—"The United States has had substantial annual trade deficits since the oil embargo of the early '70s. Recent major weaknesses of the U.S. dollar on foreign markets suggest that additional devaluations may take place."

INCREASED CONSUMER DEBT—"Consumers' debts increased rapidly in 1977. To cover interest and repay the debts, many consumers will be forced either to restrict purchases or take bankruptcy. This may adversely affect the soundness of many lending agencies, including banks, and consequently the condition of the economy."

PROTECTIONISM—"We Americans think we have the world's most efficient production system. At the same time, we seek government protection from competitive imported products.

"All countries want to increase exports and reduce imports, and that leads to wasted world resources and higher living costs.

"There are now more indications of a desire to return to restrictive trade policies of the pre-1929 era than at any time since the Great Depression. If exports are to increase, there must be imports to pay for them."

NEED FOR NEW INVESTMENT—"The amount of savings from industry and individuals hasn't kept pace with rising consumer expectations. The nation has been living off past investments for more than a decade. These investments must be replaced in order for us to experience real economic growth."

GET-RICH-QUICK SYNDROME—"We've seen a rash of sharp practices and short cuts in recent years; the general public is taking the risk and paying the bill for schemes that gain financial leverage for some operators.

"These are warning signals that have largely been ignored. Manipulative practices could lay the groundwork for another economic debacle like 1929."

POPULATION—"Growth has slowed in the United States some, but unless the rate goes down here and in the rest of the world, population may exceed the world's ability to provide food, housing and clothing beyond a mere subsistence level."

GOVERNMENT: PAYING FOR IT—"People cry for government economy, and election candidates promise to deliver. Yet, each year the government is asked to provide for more services, which the electorate assumes can be provided without additional cost.

"The illusion is fostered on all sides. We all must recognize that eventually the cost of government must be paid for. Competent government is expensive; we must accept the fact that only as much of it will be provided as we're able to pay for. The alternatives may be even more costly."

Cooperation essential for development agency

By BARRY M. LOCKE
Executive Director
Bi-State Development Agency

Events of the past year have demonstrated the region's ability to regain and retain its role as a crossroads for industry, commerce and tourism, and Bi-State activities reflected this ability.

Bi-State's negotiations with the Army Corps of Engineers resulted in acquisition of the regional port's first fireboat, the initial step in plans for a coordinated port safety program.

The Bi-State Parks Airport has been recognized by various agencies and private firms as a possible commuter airline facility and industrial park site to attract airborne commercial activities.

The agency's discussions with American Commercial Barge Lines may lead to construction of an important rail-to-river coal transfer station, and Bi-State is continuing to work with many interested parties to determine the feasibility of a system of solid waste disposal, resource recovery and power generation.

Public transit, too, is dependent on a cooperative approach to operate efficiently.

During the past year nearly 400 new buses have been put into service; 20 bus routes have been added, including innovative neighborhood circulator lines.

Persons in wheelchairs may now ride a network of 22 routes aboard buses equipped with lift devices, the first fully accessible regular-line service in the nation; and overall ridership on the system rose more than four percent.

More important to attainment of the area's long-range transportation goals, however, is an appreciation of Bi-State's founding premise of faithful cooperation at all levels so that the agency, the people served, and their elected officials may benefit from the ultimate goal: frequent, dependable mass transportation provided at a cost all can afford which is equitably assessed in relation to the services provided.

The St. Louis area currently has one of the nation's lowest fares and most modern bus fleets.

However, an interdependence is undeniable: service improvements depend upon federal grants which are predicated upon local financial support, which requires continuation by local officials who ultimately answer to the transit system's passengers.

Bi-State's overall plans for 1978 obviously hinge upon multi-level cooperation, and the agency's Board of Commissioners will consider a variety of matters already proposed, including Downtown People Mover-Light Rail Vehicles; Gateway Arch and Convention Center parking, and a major renovation of transit servicing facilities.

Equally significant, however, will be those projects not now under consideration — projects that have not yet been suggested for Bi-State involvement but in which the agency may be able to successfully participate.

Registration for astrology

Do the stars have an effect on a person's life? This question will be explored in depth beginning Jan. 16 at Belleville Area College's Granite City Extension Center.

A beginning class in astrology, offered on Monday nights, will teach participants the basics of "scientific astrology" and how to set up an astrology chart, with some interpretations of the chart.

An intermediate class will consist of the interpretation of one's own chart and the charts of other people. Frank Kraus, BAC coordinator for Granite City, indicated that an advanced course probably will follow during the fall semester.

Registration for the astrology classes, as well as a variety of other general studies classes and courses offered in Granite City for college transfer credit, will be held Jan. 9, 10 and 11 from 3:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. in Room 135 of Granite City High South.

Fewer auto deaths here in past year

Quad-City area traffic fatalities during 1977 dropped 25.9 per cent below those of the previous year, mainly because of a 120-day period in which no traffic deaths occurred during the last four months of the year.

The 120-day period without a traffic fatality in the Quad-City area, or deaths of area residents in other localities, was a record in recent years, although a three-month period without such fatalities marked the first three months of 1976.

Statistics compiled by the Press-Record show that a total of 20 persons died as the result of traffic accidents during the first eight months of 1977.

This compared with 16 traffic deaths in the first eight months of 1976, but 11 persons died that year during the last four months, for a total of 27.

There were no traffic fatalities involving Quad-Citians in September, October, November and December last year, making a total of 20 fatalities for the year.

The month of March also went by without a traffic death, making a total of five months of 1977 in which there were no traffic fatalities. Statistics on fatalities include those persons killed in traffic accidents within the area, as well as Quad-City residents who are injured fatally in accidents occurring elsewhere.

While the number of traffic deaths dropped substantially, the total number of accidents which involved injuries declined considerably, as did the number of drivers or passengers who were injured in those accidents.

During the 12 months of last year, 642 accidents occurred in which 953 persons were injured. The statistics do not include those accidents which only involve property damage.

This compares with a total of 776 accidents in which 1,111 persons were hurt during 1976.

On this basis, the number of 1977 injury accidents is a decline of 17.2 per cent below those of the previous year, while the total of 953 persons injured last year was a reduction of 14 percent below the 1,111 persons hurt the year before.

The largest number of fatalities reported in any single month occurred during May when five persons died in area accidents. Also during May, 78 persons were hurt in 47 injury accidents.

Four persons died in traffic accidents during August, while 113 persons were injured in 71 injury accidents. There were three fatalities each in April, when 118 persons were hurt in 66 accidents, and in July when 75 persons sustained injuries in 54 injury mishaps.

Two fatalities occurred in traffic accidents in January, with 74 persons hurt in 49 accidents, and two in February when 71 persons suffered injuries in 54 accidents.

There was only one fatality during June. Ninety-one persons were injured that month in 63 injury accidents.

Assessor

assessor's quarters at 1316 Niedringhaus Ave.

"meanwhile, we will move into the new building if the board permits. It will take a little while to install telephones and occupy the offices, but we will get moved as fast as we can.

"I have nothing against the building. It is a beautiful building. But I do think the space for our office is too small," he remarked.

Cruse earlier maintained he would not move his offices from Niedringhaus Avenue into the new building because of the space problem. Offices in the new building provided room for nine desks. Cruse contended he had need of a minimum of 13 desks.

Nelson Hagnauer, supervisor of Granite City Township to whom Cruse had complained earlier about the shortage of office space, was asked by Mayor Schuler if he had a comment on the issue.

Hagnauer told the aldermen that he appreciated the fact that the assessor's office will be moved into the new building.

"I agree that it will take a little time for the moving process and I would like to recommend that the board approve the rent claim for January," Hagnauer said.

Alderman Gerald Parmley presented a motion that the board comply with Cruse's request. The motion carried by a unanimous vote with three of the 14 aldermen absent.

CAR IS STOLEN

The dark blue two-door 1972 Buick Riviera of Louise Shambro, 3143 Maryville Road, was stolen from in front of her home between 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and 7:45 a.m. Wednesday.

APARTMENT LOOTED

A combination radio, casette player and turntable, two speakers, a rented television set, a small kitchen rug and a tan and white kitten, 12 weeks old, were stolen during a burglary at the apartment of Letty Kessler, 3227 Maryville Road, Apt. 4, between 2:15 and 11:30 p.m. Wednesday. There were no signs of forced entry.

Rate plan

from Boswell's Pro Tune-Up of East Alton for repairing sheriff's vehicles, and then awarding the work to the second lowest bidder, Bo Beuckman Ford of Collinsville, which has done such repair work for the county since 1971.

He contends the 17 board members acted wrongly in rejecting the low bid and that Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer neglected his duty in signing the contract with Beuckman.

A state statute calls for each board member found in willful neglect of his duties to forfeit $200 for each proven incident, he said at a press conference.

After the suit was filed, some representatives of organized labor went on record against Partney's suit, contending it favors the non-union Boswell shop over the union Beuckman shop.

The Southern Illinois Labor Tribune, an AFL-CIO publication in East St. Louis, printed a front-page article critical of Partney's stand, he reported.

He said, "I have let critics hammer at me and use it politically, and I cannot let it go on any longer.

"They say I am an enforcer of non-union labor. I am in favor of union contractors doing union work.

"Since I was 16 years old, I have been a union member, first in the Retail Clerks and then the Sheet Metal Workers, and I am now a member of Teamsters Local 525.

"Granite Sheet Metal, in which I am a partner, employs all union people and has done so for 27 years.

"Thomas and Mercer Mortuaries, in which I am a partner, use employees who are all members of Teamsters Local 525," he said.

Partney said the county does a great deal of business with non-union firms and added, "If the county's policy was to use only union contractors, I would support it."

He said, "William Webb, a county board member, is quoted in the Press-Record as voting for the Beuckman contract because he says he is a union member and feels the county should do business with union firms.

"Yet the Health Services Committee, of which Webb is chairman, has purchased about $13,000 worth of meat in the last six months from a meat company which has locked out its union employees and has hired non-union workers at a lower scale," Partney contended.

He also asserted that the official minutes of the county board are printed monthly by a firm which he said dropped out of the printers' union five years ago.

Partney said some of the pharmacies from which the county purchases drugs have employees who are not members of retail clerk unions, including Midtown Pharmacy in Granite City, which he said is owned by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler and a Madison County sheriff candidate, Donald Vaughn.

Midtown did about $10,000 worth of business with the county last year, about one-third of all the drug business the county contracted, Partney alleged. He opposed Mayor Schuler as a candidate in the 1977 mayor election.

"These are flagrant examples of how the county board is overlooking the union aspect in purchases.

"Last month, the county awarded seven contracts for hauling seal coat aggragate materials.

"Four of those contracts went to a corporation which is not using Teamster drivers," Partney asserted.

"I feel these people (the 18 being sued) have thrown their chestnuts in the fire and now are trying to get the unions to pull them out."

Partney said he requested an appearance before the building trades council but was not given that opportunity before advertisements were purchased by the council assailing his lawsuit.

"I would still like to appear before the council or any union body to explain my position. It is not based on union versus non-union."

He said he is having a draft resolution prepared which would require all bidders with the county to certify that they will pay their employees the prevailing wage for the area when doing work for the county.

That resolution will be submitted to the legislative committee, which could then make a recommendation on it to the full county board, possibly at the board's February meeting, he said.

"This is based on the Davis-Bacon Act provisions that the federal government uses on all its bid specifications.

"It does not require union labor, but would assure that union wages are paid for any work done for the county," Partney explained.

He said the resolution will seek to have a copy of the requirement attached to every set of specifications let out for bidding.

He said such a requirement for union wages for all county work is his idea, and was not suggested by unions.

"I have not been under any pressure by the unions, except they asked me to drop my suit and I told them I would not drop it," he related.

"The principle behind my suit is that the county board deals with whoever it wants to deal with, union or non-union.

"The Boswell bid would have saved the taxpayers $7,000 per year, according to my estimates, and I feel we are paying far too much for auto repairs now."

Boswell, in addition to a promise that he would not interfere with employees if they wanted to organize, also promised he would purchase a wheel-alignment unit if he got the county contract, according to Partney.

The county board member said there is no truth to comments by some board members that Boswell might have had to contract out much of the work.

"All he could not do was wheel alignment work, and he said he would be able to do that if we gave him the contract," Partney said.

The county trades its sheriff department cars every two years and the first year is under warranty, he said.

"Repairs to cars under warranty, of course, would be made at the warranty service center.

"I am now studying why, with half the work done free under warranty, we pay three county mechanics over $35,000 in salaries each year, and still paid $48,463 for repairs, parts and service in a 13-month period, according to one study," he said.

"If we spent this much, why do we hire three mechanics for small repairs?", he asked.

He noted that when bids first were received for repairs last year, another firm underbid Beuckman Ford.

He said the finance committee rejected both bids due to what it called a problem in the wording of the specifications and sought new bids, even though he believes the first bids received met specifications.

In the second round of bidding, Beuckman reduced its bid and Boswell underbid the Collinsville firm, Partney said.

He contended that enacting a requirement that all work done for the county use employees paid the current union rate would give union and non-union firms an equal opportunity to bid and added, "I do not feel it will drive up prices much.

"I have studied bids from union and non-union firms for other purchases, and the cost difference is not that great," he concluded.

Mrs. Maddox dies at 80

Mrs. Rhea Lottie Maddox, 80, of 2828 Michigan Ave., ill for one month, died at 5 a.m. Wednesday at the Colonnades Nursing home where she had resided for five years.

She was born in Fountain County, Ind., and resided in Indiana until moving to Granite City 10 years ago.

Mrs. Maddox was of the Methodist faith.

Her husband, Glenn Maddox, died in 1954.

Survivors include two sons, Robert Maddox of Granite City, and Ben Maddox of Monterey Park, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. Hollis (Phyllis) Nunelly of Bakersfield, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Daisy Berry, Walnut Creek, Calif.; five grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Venice fire

satisfactory condition at the hospital.

James F. Harris, who lives at 1219 Douglas Ave., opposite the mobile home, said, "I came outside and everything was burning up."

Several neighbors apparently notified the Venice police and fire departments simultaneously, according to Patrolman John Crook, who lives nearby.

The blaze inside the mobile home already had destroyed most of the interior when firemen arrived.

"Once a fire gets any kind of hold, some mobile homes will go like a crackerbox," Fire Captain Tom Scaturro commented.

Sparks and flames from the house trailer leaped across a narrow space to 1222 Douglas Ave., a single-story frame house beloning to Leslie Herron.

Firefighting efforts then turned toward the house, and jets of water were used to saturate the roof and siding.

A fire, however, started burning on the roof and in the attic, and firemen climbed over the front porch and shot streams of water inside the attic.

It appeared the firefighters had the house fire under control when it suddenly flared up again and flames began shooting through the roof at the rear of the dwelling.

Two young volunteer firemen, equipped with compressed air tanks and masks, were inside the house when part of the roof collapsed.

Capt. Scaturro said neither man was injured, as the dwelling apparently had a dropped ceiling which supported the burning roof until they reached safety outside.

One fireman, Ronnie Brawley, his face blackened with the smoke, used up his tank of air and came back to the rescue truck for a refill. By then, access to the house was impossible.

It was learned the owner of the residence, Herron, became ill recently and currently is visiting relatives in Chicago.

While he is away, Roosevelt Thomas, a friend, had been staying at the home.

Thomas had arrived at the house moments before the adjacent fire started, and went outdoors after hearing people shouting.

He had just cashed his Social Security check and paid the utility bills. He never got back inside to retrieve his money, nor any other personal effects.

Mrs. Eula Mae Gary, 1218 Douglas Ave., next door to the trailer, stood watching the fire and the sparks shooting over toward her home.

She was concerned that the same fate might await her home as already had occurred to the Herron house.

Mrs. McGuire said the man who first entered her home to find the baby was named "Lawrence," and she believes him to be Mrs. Gary's son.

Several of the older residents at the scene commented that some of the homes are constructed close together.

They recalled fires which swept through part of Venice years ago, one that destroyed about 25 houses.

"If the wind had been blowing, it might have taken every house on the block," one man remarked.

Fire protection

and pay the regular taxes for that district, he explained.

"If they turn down the proposition, the fire marshal may assign that area to a fire department for two more years, and then two additional years, a maximum of six years. If they have then not joined a fire protection district, they may be left unprotected," Steele said.

He noted there has been good response since the bill became law and residents of several areas have approached him for information on how to be assigned to a fire department.

"It is my understanding that several areas have been assigned to the Long Lake and Mitchell fire department, but there still are a few areas left unprotected," he added.

It was explained the original bill submitted by Steele called for assignment to the nearest fire department, but the Illinois Municipal League objected to including municipal fire departments, so the bill was amended to exclude city departments.

"This does not preclude residents of unprotected areas negotiating with the nearest municipal fire department or any fire district for inclusion or protection under a contractual agreement," he said.

Persons residing close to a fire department may seek agreement with that department for fire protection, either with an annual fee or by an agreed-upon amount to be paid for each fire call, he elaborated.

The bill is designed to aid persons who cannot afford fire insurance because their homes are not in fire districts. Steele said he will be glad to help anyone attempting to be assigned to a fire district and may be reached at the Steele-Kunnemann Agency, at 876-0252.

smoke and heat, grabbed 3-year-old Ben Gordon and ran down the front stairway and outside. She then awoke neighbors who called the fire department. Neither Mrs. Sanders nor Ben Gordon required hospital treatment.

When firemen arrived, flames had broken through the roof. Mrs. Sanders said her daughter still was inside and Pipeman Nelson Hagnauer Jr. went up the stairway with a breathing mask and located the girl in the dense smoke on the floor of the front bedroom, near the window.

He carried her down the stairs and to a waiting Granite City ambulance. Firemen noted she was found about one minute after firemen arrived on the scene.

Mrs. Sanders then discovered that Lonnie Gordon had not escaped from the apartment, as she first thought, and firemen returned to the apartment to search for him.

About seven minutes after Ginger Sanders was rescued, Capt. James Reiter located Lonnie Gordon, unconscious and crouched behind a chair in the living room, which is in the center of the apartment.

Reiter brought him down the front stairway to an ambulance. Enroute to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Lonnie stopped breathing and Granite City Ambulance Attendants Paul Besserman, Mike Murgic and Dave Bell administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation and got the child breathing again.

At the hospital emergency room, soot and smoke were flushed from Lonnie's lungs and he was transferred to Cardinal Glennon Hospital. Enroute to the Missouri hospital, he stopped breathing a second time and the same attendants restored his breathing again.

Giner Lou Sanders was kept at St. Elizabeth Hospital about one hour, but developed seizures and breathing distress and was transferred to Cardinal Glennon Hospital. Authorities said her condition had stablized this morning, but she remained in serious condition.

Residents of the adjoining apartments escaped without being injured or breathing excessive amounts of smoke. They were Geneva Stephens and her children, ages 8 and 6, who resided at 2022a Grand Ave., and Ruth Dudley and her two grandchildren, ages 16 and 15, who resided downstairs at 2022 Grand Ave.

The apartment building is owned by Granite City Police Sergeant Glenn Wright.

Six pieces of fire equipment from two engine companies and a ladder company fought the fire for nearly two hours.

Damage was estimated at $9,000 to the building and $5,000 to its contents. Two cats were found dead in the Sanders' apartment, the result of smoke inhalation.

Assistant Fire Chief George Smolich, who directed the firefighting effort until Chief Don Parente arrived, commended the firemen and ambulance attendants for their work, particularly in saving the children.

"I feel all of our men did a professional job and deserve a great deal of credit. There is no doubt the firemen and ambulance attendants saved the lives of both children and did a tremendous job," Smolich said.

On a happier note, Mrs. Gordon gave birth Wednesday night to a healthy 6 pound, 14 ounce girl, named Kelly Sue Gordon.

United Way-Red Cross program in which one-family to four-family disaster victims are assisted.

Additional help is planned from this fund and possibly from other sources.

"A severe financial problem exists for Mrs. Gerkin and we're not entirely sure at this time whether sufficient means can be found," Mrs. Mildred Meehan, Tri-City Red Cross Chapter executive secretary, said Wednesday.

LA BOHEME PREVIEW TO BE GIVEN MONDAY

A preview of Puccini's opera, "La Boheme" will be a highlight of the next meeting of the Allegro Opera Guild. The preview will be given on Monday, Jan. 9, at 8 p.m. at The Well on Cottonwood Road in Glen Carbon.

Singing the role of Mimi will be June MacKenzie, Litchfield. Dave O'Dell, St. Louis, will sing the role of Rudolpho. Marcello will be sung by Bill Dees of St. Louis and Musetta by Gail Wagner of Belleville.

A business meeting will follow, and a reception for the singers will close the evening. The public is being invited to attend, and a $1 donation will be asked of all non-Guild members.

Repairs

requirements which must be met to qualify for use of Community Development funds.

The mayor noted that the Housing and Urban Development Agency has ruled out the city's sewer repair program as qualifying for funds under the new guidelines, although part of the Nameoki area might be qualified through a new application for work to be done only in "low to moderate income" areas, which is one of the qualifying criteria.

Mayor Schuler noted that the city actually has not "lost" the $270,000 in Community Development funds, since it may be spent for other projects that do qualify. Still, he said, the funds may not be used in the sewer repair program for which the allotment originally was intended.

In addition, Schuler explained, HUD has ruled that all funds spent for sewer repairs since last June are being considered under the ruling, which means that work done by the sewer division since June 30 will have to be paid out of the city's general funds.

The issue came before the aldermen in a request by Portell for direction in further operation of the sewer program since Community Development funds are no longer available.

He told the council that two major sewer breaks remain to be repaired after the sewer division completes work on the O'Hare and Kilarney avenues sewer, now under way, is completed. He said about two weeks work remains on that project.

Those still to be repaired which will include excavating and possibly dewatering are breaks at East 24th Street and Anchorage and off Wabash Avenue between Pontoon and Amos Avenue. Bypass pumping still continues at these locations, he said.

In addition, Portell said, there are four other breaks which are not pressing at this time.

Alderman Sam Whitmer urged an immediate shutdown of the sewer work, noting that "we are going to need money for the new police station and for a number of things. I think the sewer work should be cut off until we can determine where we stand financially."

Whitmer noted that the city still is involved in negotiations for new working agreements with the police, fire and street departments, "and we don't know what that is going to cost us."

Gerald Parmley, alderman of Ward Six, said he agreed with Whitmer and that the council first should determine the possible source of funds for the sewer work before any further money is spent out of the general fund.

Paul Ray Bowler, alderman of the Seventh Ward and chairman of the council's Finance Committee, emphasized that the city is soon to begin its consideration of the new 1978-79 operating budget and that the city is confronted with substantial anticipated expenditures, not the least of which will be higher salaries for all city employees.

The sewer repair problem was referred to the Street and Alley Committee on a motion by Ronald Coleman of the Seventh Ward. The Street and Alley Committee includes Alderman Clyde Boyd, chairman, and Coleman and Lloyd Bailey as members.

Portell told the Press-Record that the sewer division, since acquiring grouting and televising equipment in mid-1976, has replaced 5,259 feet of sewer lines in making major repairs to sanitary lines in the Nameoki area.

He estimated expenditures for the work thus far at "about $223,000."

If a decision is reached to halt all sewer work for the time being, he will have to lay off eight workers now employed in the repair work, Portell said.

Driver held

He first drove the car through the state-owned wire fence which parallels the highway, then drove across a field for approximately one mile before the car became stuck in the mud.

Upon investigation by Illinois State Police, the car was found to have been stolen in St. Louis County.

The man is being held in the Madison County Jail awaiting the filing of charges by St. Louis County authorities.

Snag on 18th-Madison signals

Plans by Granite City to signalize and enlarge the intersection at 18th Street and Madison Avenue to facilitate the use of 18th Street as a truck route have been abandoned, at least for the time being, City Council members were informed in a regular meeting Tuesday night.

Monroe Brewer, city engineer, told the aldermen that the project "fell by the wayside" after it became apparent that an effort to obtain financing under the Federal Aid to Urban System (FAUS) program might endanger funding for the proposed overpass between downtown and West Granite City.

The matter came before the aldermen Tuesday night when Harland Bartholomew & Associates, St. Louis planning engineers, billed the city for $8,239 as the balance of a total bill of $14,058 for handling the engineering work and preparing design plans for the proposed project.

Planning to enlarge the intersection and install electric traffic signals began in November 1974 when the city appropriated $80,000 in motor fuel tax money to finance the project.

At that time the city anticipated financing of 90 percent of the cost under the Federal Safety Act, although the city was required to advance the cost and then receive reimbursement.

The city contracted with Harland Bartholomew and Associates to handle the engineering and to prepare design plans for the project.

Brewer explained the city then ran into a problem in acquisition of right-of-way, particularly from the owners of Houser Automotive. The deadline for funding under the Federal Safety Act was June 1975, Brewer said.

The city then applied to shift the financing to the FAUS program.

"In subsequent negotiations it appeared we might endanger funding for the overpass so we dropped that approach," Brewer said.

In a letter to the city presented Tuesday night, Stanley Dolecki, associate partner of the engineering firm, suggested that because of the "dormant status" of the project, the engineering contract be terminated.

A listing of engineering services totaling $14,058, against which the city had made payments of $5,819, was included in the letter, with $8,239 given as the balance due.

Council members voted to refer the bill to City Attorney Lance Callis to check the costs and determine what amount is due.

Alderman Roy Poulos of the Third Ward remarked:

"Then we're left with a white elephant?"

"That's about the extent of it," Brewer replied.

Plans to signalize the intersection were developed after the City Council in 1974 designated 18th Street as a truck route designed to route heavy truck traffic around the downtown section.

Use of the route presents a problem, however, in truck movements in and out of Madison Avenue at 18th Street.

'Wizard of Oz' weekend tryouts

"Wizard of Oz" tryouts will be held this Sunday, Jan. 8, at 2 p.m. and at 7 p.m., plus Monday, Jan. 9, at 7:30 p.m., it was announced today.

The Masquers theatrical group is conducting the tryouts, and the location will be the Collinsville fire station on Center Street.

Current plans call for the "Wizard of Oz" musical play to be presented in both Granite City and Collinsville, probably in mid-March, a spokesman said.

The organization includes many Quad-City residents.

More funds for site of state college

Governor James R. Thompson has released $112,000 in Capital Development Board bond funds to complete the purchase of about 25 acres of land for the permanent campus of the State Community College of East St. Louis.

"These monies will provide a significant state commitment to the redevelopment plans of the East St. Louis community," he commented.

"This new educational facility will take shape in the heart of the city's redevelopment area as a demonstration of this administration's intention to help the people revitalize their city."

The downtown East St. Louis site acquisition will cost $440,000, which includes $328,000 in bond funds previously released by the governor.

The initial campus construction and land purchase project will total $7.2 million in state funds. This will include construction of three buildings—an academic and administration building, a learning resources center building, and phase I of a skills training center building.

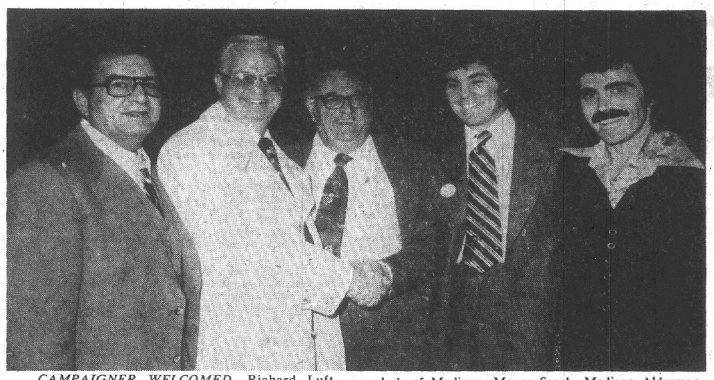

The academic and administration building will have classrooms and laboratories for general education, including chemistry, biology, physics and mathematics, as well as instruction in secretarial skills, data processing, electronics and various health-related professions. The administration area will hold administrative offices, records storage, a counseling center and computer facility.

The learning resources center will house a library, dining hall and bookstore.

The skills training center building will include facilities for instruction in welding, graphic arts, auto mechanics, auto body repair and heating, ventilation and air-conditioning technology.

Completion of the land acquisition is expected this month, with construction to begin in the fall. Completion of the structure is anticipated in the fall of 1980.

The entire amount of state funds required for the project has been provided in appropriations approved by the governor and the General Assembly.

On-site hearing

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct an on-site public hearing at 10:50 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 2683 Missouri Ave. (formerly Route 3), where Clarence E. and Terry T. Gibson and their agent, Orville E. Hodge, are requesting a special use permit to place a mobile home for the occupancy of the Jerry Gibson family for up to five years.

North takes second straight from Shells

By DOUG IRVIN
For the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY, Jan. 5 — "Deja' vu" means the illusion of having already experienced the thing you are doing at the present. That's probably how the GCHS North basketball Steelers felt when they hosted Roxana Tuesday night.

North actually had experienced something of the same thing. The Steelers had played the Shells just four days earlier for third place in the Wood River Holiday Tournament. The Steelers defeated Roxana on that occasion, 55-52.

Tuesday night's game was just as satisfying to the Steelers as the earlier one had been. A fourth-quarter comeback attempt by Roxana was held off by North as it won its second in a row from the Shells, 69-63.

"FREE THROWS, free throws! That's why we won tonight. We were never fouled that much before . . . we took advantage of it," commented Steeler coach Bill Ohelendorf. His Steelers made 29 fo 39 free throw attempts, being fouled 23 times by Roxana.

Dennis Page, a six-foot sophomore, made the Steelers' first basket on a 15-foot jumper from the right side with just 37 seconds having elapsed on the clock.

Rich Willaredt, the Steelers' center, intercepted two straight Roxana passes after Page had scored in the first period, but was unable to convert on either turnover.

LATE IN the first quarter, Willaredt tied up Roxana's Bob Barton for possession of the ball. A jump ball was called and Willaredt won the tip.

He got the ball off to North's Bob Batey, who tried a 20-foot jumper with two seconds remaining. The ball fell short, however, leaving the score 14-10 in favor of North at the end of the first period.

Early in the second quarter, Barton showed that Willaredt wasn't the only one on the floor who could steal passes. He drove all the way down the floor for a layup which brought Roxana within two points, 14-12.

Then Roxana's Dave Colyer tied up Page. But Page won the jump ball. He got the ball to Willaredt, who scored from five feet out to give the Steelers their four-point bulge back.

THE STEELERS went right on from there. They outscored the Shells 18-8 over the remainder of the second quarter.

When Page sank two free throws with only two seconds remaining in the half, North led at the intermission 34-20.

With 3:47 remaining in the third quarter, North's Randy Vandergriff caused yet another jump ball. But this time it was Roxana's Barton who won the tap. He gained control of the ball himself and scored from 10 feet out.

Ninety seconds later, Vandergriff was fouled by Roxana's Jim Brown. He made both free throw attempts (of a one-and-one situation) and the Steelers still had their 14-point lead, 44-30.

Dave Knetzer of Roxana scored on a 15-foot jumper as the buzzer sounded, ending the third quarter, to make the deficit for the Shells only nine, 46-37. The comeback had begun.

ON THE STRENGTH of three straight baskets by Brown, the Shells were able to tie the score twice in the fourth quarter.

With 3:33 remaining in the game, Brown hit a 10-footer to tie the score and 55-all. But North's Page came right back down the floor and gave the Steelers the lead when he hit a 20-footer.

A 35-footer by Brown just 14 seconds later pulled the Shells back into a tie at 57-57.

With two-and-a-half minutes remaining in the game, Vandergriff was fouled by Roxana's Barry Knitzer. He made both ends of the one-and-one and gave North a lead it would never give up, 59-57.

During the last two minutes of the game, the Steelers made eight free throws and one field goal to assure themselves of the victory.

With three seconds left, Page sank two charity tosses to make the final score 69-63.

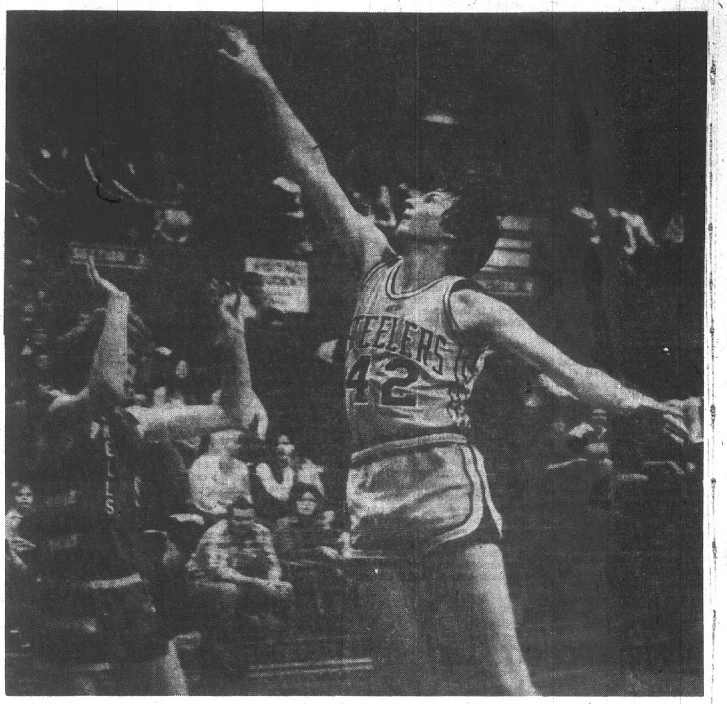

"VANDERGRIFF did a great job when he was out there," said Ohlendorf. "And Russ Chappell (nine points) did great, too. He added the extra fire we needed when Roxana got close."

Now standing with a 4-5 record, the Steelers will try and even their mark when they host Breese Mater Dei this Saturday night.

All four area teams in weekend games

Prep cagers back in action

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor

All four Quad-City prep basketball teams will swing back into action this weekend after a long siege of holiday tournaments.

Granite City North and South each have one game scheduled, while Madison and Venice each have games set for both Friday and Saturday night.

South's Warriors, fresh from taking the crown in the Wood River Christmas Classic, will play hosts to Cahokia Friday night.

A junior varsity contest is set for 6:30 p.m. Friday, with the varsity game to follow immediately afterward, about 8 p.m.

The Warriors are riding high with a 9-2 record. They have lost only to Belleville East and West, by a combined total of four points — three to East (59-56) and one to West (44-43). They made a shambles of their opposition during the holiday tournament.

The closest call the Warriors had at Wood River was against the hosts in the championship game. They won that one by 13 (61-48).

In all, South outscored its opposition by a combined total of 203-147 over the three Warrior games in the tournament.

South is averaging 67.5 points per game while the defense is allowing only 50 points a game. The most points allowed by the Warriors were 59 to Belleville East.

THE NORTH STEELERS, now with a 4-5 mark, are riding the crest of a two-game winning streak . . . both wins coming against Roxana.

The Steelers have won three out of their last four games. They will be put to the test when they host a tough Breese Mater Dei squad Saturday night at Memorial Gym. The junior varsity game is set for 6:30 and the varsity contest for 8 o'clock.

North is averaging 56 points a game, scoring a total of 504 points in nine games. The Steelers are giving up an average of 65.5 points a game.

MADISON, the area's top Class A (750 enrollment and under) team, is still undefeated following its claiming of the championship at the Breese Mater Dei Holiday Tournament last week. The Trojans, 9-0, will face two potentially tough opponents this weekend.

On Friday nigth, they'll host St. Paul of Highland, consolation champion at the Mater Dei tourney and holder of an 8-1 record.

On Saturday night, the Trojans will travel to Okawville for a rematch with the Rockets. Madison came from behind to beat Okawville 64-61 in the quarterfinals of the Mater Dei tournament last Wednesday.

The Trojans are averaging 72 points a game while allowing 56.5. They have outscored their opposition through nine games, 648-509.

VENICE'S RED DEVILS, still looking for their first win of the season, will also play two games this weekend. On Friday night, they'll host Lovejoy of Brooklyn and Saturday night they'll travel to Altamont.

Friday night' game will feature the matchup of the two Salmond brothers, Rick of Venice and Ron of Lovejoy. Ron quit the school at Venice after last season and enrolled at Lovejoy.

Another incident of a departure from the team could have an effect on the Devils. Frank Pace, the 6-4 center for Venice, has quit the team, thus weakening the strength of coach Ken Perkins' bench.

The Red Devils are averaging 67 points a game and allowing an average of 77 points a game. They have scored 401 total points over six games and have allowed 464.

The Indians of Altamont have one victory over a Quad-City school already. They defeated Granite City North 60-59 on Dec. 22.

'Y' soccer award banquet Monday

The 1977 fall YMCA soccer award presentation will be held at the Granite City High School South auditorium Monday, Jan. 9, at 7 p.m.

A total of 54 teams competed in the fall soccer program, which involved 810 youngsters.

Awards will be presented to 120 boys who represent 23 teams that finished in the first three places.

Certificates will be awarded to all participants of the YMCA soccer league.

Coach Gene Baker of Granite City South and Coach Robert Kehoe of Granite City North will be the guest speakers.

South spring physicals set

Physical examinations for all boys wishing to compete in spring sports at Granite City High School South will be given Monday, Jan. 16, according to Roger Smith, athletic coordinator at South.

The examinations will be given in Memorial Gymnasium on the South campus, and will begin at 5:30 p.m. Parent permission slips for the various spring sports may be obtained from the individual coaches, Smith said.

Coolidge Junior High and Madison Junior High are the "top dogs" going into Madison County Junior High Conference action next week on both the basketball and wrestling scene.

Coolidge, undefeated with a 4-0 record, is in first place among the five schools competing in wrestling in the conference.

Prather Junior High is one game back of Coolidge, standing at 3-1. Edwardsville is in third place at 2-2, Grigsby is fourth with a 1-3 record and Collinsville is last with an 0-4 mark.

Madison Junior High leads both the seventh and eighth grade leagues in the basketball standings. The seventh graders and the eighth graders are both on top with 5-0 records.

Coolidge is second in the seventh grade standings. The Braves are a half game back with a 6-1 record. Edwardsville is third at 4-1, Webster is fourth at 4-2 and Roxana is in fifth place with a 4-3 record.

Webster junior high of Collinsville is fifth at 2-3 and Collinsville North stands at 2-4 for sixth place.

Prather and Roxana are tied for last place with identical 1-6 records.

On the eighth grade level, Collinsville North is second to Madison with a 5-1 record. Edwardsville is third at 4-1, Webster is fourth at 4-2 and Roxana is in fifth place with a 4-3 record.

There are three teams tied for sixth place with 1-6 records — Coolidge, Grigsby and Prather.

All conference teams in both sports will swing back into action next Tuesday, Jan. 10.

Junior high wrestlers, however, will get a taste of action tomorrow and Saturday in the Prather wrestling tournament.

Cougars to face tough tests

On their way back from Chicago last weekend on Amtrak, the members of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team were collectively feeling fairly good about their 6-1 record and third-place finish in the third annual Lake Shore Cage Classic hosted by Roosevelt University.

In announcing plans for after New Year's Day practice sessions for his Cougars, Coach Jim Dudley rudely brought his charges down to earth by outlining to them what they faced this week and next:

First—this Saturday's big game with Ron Coleman's 2-6 St. Louis University Billikens at Kiel Auditorium.

Second—next week's crucial game with the University of Missouri, St. Louis Rivermen at the Edwardsville High gym, Wednesday night (Jan. 11); and,

Third—always tough Indiana State University-Evansville on Saturday night, Jan. 14, also at Edwardsville High.

Dudley reminded his charges that "we have never beaten the Bills (in two tries), and UMSL has an advantage in the series with us. And, I don't have to remind you again that Indiana State is 2-2 with us in our last four games."

Dudley also reminded his Cougars that the Bills are zinging along on a two-game winning streak with consecutive victories over UMSL and Tulsa U.

In their last three games in Chicago, the Cougars were paced in scoring by their junior guard, Keil Peebles, who now is the top SIUE pointmaker after seven games with a per-game average of 20.4. Incidentally, the deadeye Peebles was named the "most valuable player" in the Lake Shore Classic.

Slightly behind Peebles in scoring is Bennie Lewis, who has poured in an average of 18.9 points per game while averaging eight rebounds per game.

At the other forward slot for the Cougars along with Lewis is senior Vince Barnett of Decatur, averaging 9.9 points per game, while at the same time maintaining a national ranking in rebounding.

Last week, he was 15th in the NCAA division in rebounders with an 11.8-per-game average. Currently, after seven games he's doing even better — with a 12.4 caroms per game.

In the scoring margin category of the NCAA statistics, SIUE maintained practically the same position (18.0) which had earned the Cougars a fifth-place slot last week.

However, the Cougars may have dropped out of the top 15 leaders in scoring defense, having allowed the seven foes an average of 68.7 points per game. In the current NCAA stats, the Cougars were listed 12th in the nation with 66.0 points per game. Peebles' 15-of-15 free throws earns him a spot, also, among the national leaders.

The battle between Mike Waldo (Granite City North) and Jeff Verstraete, a junior college transfer from Moline, has given Dudley a pair of top guards to go with Peebles.

Waldo is averaging 7.9 points per game, compared to Verstraete's 6.7. A tower of strength for the Cougars inside and under the baskets has been sophomore Bill Branz.

The 6-8 Branz is hitting at a sensational .646 (9.5 points per game) field goal average while pulling down 10 caroms a game.

Jim Allen, a 6-9 junior from Morrisonville, is turning out to be the Cougar "super sub," as he's averaged 7.3 points per game and 5.4 rebounds. At the same time, he's been averaging five "rejects" each game.

Prather wrestling tournament scheduled for this weekend

The seventh annual Prather Wrestling Tournament will be held tomorrow (Jan. 6) and Saturday (Jan. 7).

The starting times are 6 p.m. on Friday and 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The 10 teams entered in the tournament include Alton, Carbondale, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Bethalto, Mascoutah and Murphysboro in addition to Coolidge, Grigsby and Prather junior highs of Granite City.

Coolidge is the defending champion of the tournament and has won the title four years in a row.

Ticket prices are $1 for adults and 75 cents for students for each session.

A tournament booklet may be purchased for $2.50 for adult admissions and $2 for students.

Frosh wrestling tourney scheduled at GC South

Plans have been finalized for the fifth annual Granite City South freshman wrestling tournament to be held this Saturday, Jan. 7, in the South High School gym.

Eight teams are entered in this years' tourney. They are Belleville East, Belleville West, Roxana, Hazelwood Central, Cross Keys (Mo.), and Edwardsville, in addition to Granite City North and South.

There will be three sessions. The first session will begin at 10:30 Saturday morning, with the next two sessions following immediately afterward.

There will be no breaks between sessions, according to John Brooks, tournament director and South freshman coach.

There will be bouts in each weight class, from 98 pounds to heavyweight. South is the defending champion of the tournament.

There will be an admission charge of 75 cents for students and $1.25 for adults.

SIUE's Makowski All-American

GREG MAKOWSKI

For the third straight year, Greg "Face" Makowski has been named an intercollegiate soccer All-American.

The senior Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville defender sparked his Cougar teammates to a third-place finish in the NCAA Division One tournament at the University of California, Berkeley, in December.

The high finish in the national tournament gave SIUE the third slot in the final national poll behind first-place Hartwick College and the runners-up, the University of San Francisco Dons.

SIUE lost to the Dons, 2-1, in overtime and then battled back after trailing 0-2 to defeat Brown University, 3-2.

Makowski, who is captain of the U.S. Olympic team, is another product of St. Louis soccer. He prepped at Rosary High. In his four-year career at SIUE, Makowski scored 17 goals and assisted on 10 more. That 27-point total is considered amazing when it is remembered that Makowski is a defender.

Bob Guelker, SIUE coach, said, "Makowski is without a doubt the best defensive player I have ever coached." That's high praise, indeed, considering the great players Guelker coached at St. Louis University (95-9-5) and SIUE (114-26-7) while leading the Bills to five NCAA national titles. His Cougar kickers also won the first NCAA Division Two championship in 1972 before SIUE advanced to Division One.

Without a doubt, he'll be among the top five players drafted by the pros.

The other 10 players on Soccer America's All-American team give a very good idea as to the caliber of the competition that SIUE plays each season.

The University of San Francisco placed two stars on the team: midfielder Andy Atuegbu and defender Bjorn Dahl.

Quincy College, a 2-1 victim of SIUE, placed its forward, Emilio John, on the dream team. St. Louis U.'s Bills landed its mid-fielder, Ty Keough, on the team. The Cougars beat St. Louis U., 3-2.

Akron U.'s Zips, a 2-0 victim of the Cougars, placed their star forward, Louis Nanchoff, in the All-American selections. Ray Schnettgoecke, a St. Louis native, played for Brown U. in the "field of four" tourney at Berkeley and lost to SIUE, 3-2, as the Cougars fought back after trailing early in the game, 2-0. He's a defender.

John Tyma, a high scoring forward for Cleveland State U., scored one goal against the Cougars in the Midwest NCAA regional tournament final in that Ohio city in a blizzard. SIUE bounced back to beat Cleveland, 3-2, in three overtimes.

And Hartwick College, winner of the championship this year at San Francisco, landed a pair of stars on the All-American team: goalie Aly Anderson and midfielder Billy Gazonas. SIUE has played and lost to Hartwick in three exhibition games, in 1972 and twice last year.

North, South to Edwardsville

Sites picked for wrestling districts

Downstate, suburban and non-Chicago Public League schools totaling 393 have entered teams in the 41st annual Illinois High School Association (IHSA) two-class boys state wrestling tournament series.

Competition will get under way at the district level at 16 Class A district sites and 28 Class AA sites the weekend of Feb. 10-11, 1978. Sectionals will be conducted the weekend of Feb. 17-18.

The expanded state final tournament will be held at the Assembly Hall on the campus of the University of Illinois the weekend of Feb. 24-25.

Granite City North and South will be entered in the nine-team Edwardsville district tournament. Other participants besides the Steelers and the Warriors will be Alton Senior, Bethalto, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Highland Senior, Roxana and Wood River.

Participants in the Granite City South sectional will be the winners from the Belleville West, Carbondale, Edwardsville and Quincy Senior High districts.

Last February, a total of 390 schools outside the Chicago Public League entered the two-class series, which is in its fifth year of existence.

In 1975, there were 381 schools and in 1976 there were 395.

A total of 250 schools will compete in the Class AA (for schools with enrollments of 751 or more) series this winter, while there are 143 in Class A (for schools with enrollments of 750 or less).

A total of 144 more wrestlers than ever in the history of the series will advance to the state final tournament because of a change in the series terms and conditions which will bring the top three finishers in each of the 12 weight classes at the sectional level to the Assembly Hall.

In Class A, that will mean an additional 48 wrestlers and in Class AA there will be an additional 96 wrestlers.

The expanded format for the state final will also increase the total number of bouts by 216 (72 in Class A and 144 in Class AA) from a total of 420 to a total of 636.

There will be 16 wrestlers in each weight class in Class A competition and 24 wrestlers in each weight class in Class AA.

The first-place finisher in each weight class in each sectional tournament will earn a bye in the first round of competition at the state final and sectional runnersup will meet sectional third-place finishers in the opening bouts in each series.

The first and second-place finisher in each weight class will advance from the districts to the sectionals, as has been the procedure for many years.

In addition to the sectional qualifiers in the Class AA series, the top three finishers in each weight class in the Chicago Public League qualifying tournament will advance to the state final.

Sectional tournaments are scheduled to be hosted by: Class A—Mt. Olive, Port Byron (Riverdale), Tolono (Unity) and Yorkville.

Class AA—Barrington, Bloomington (H.S.), DeKalb, East Moline (United), Granite City south, Northlake (West Leyden) and Riverside-Brookfield.

The expansion in the number of participants at the state final is expected to draw even larger crowds that in the four previous combined two-class state finals.

A total of 135,962 fans attended the four previous two-class tournaments — an average of 33,991 per state final. Seating capacity of the Assembly Hall for fans attending the state wrestling tournament is approximately 15,000 per session.

Season tickets for the 41st state final tournament at a reduced price of $7 each are now available by mail. Orders may be sent to: IHSA State Wrestling Tournament Tickets, Rm. 101, Assembly Hall, Champaign, IL 61820.

Checks or money orders are made payable to: University of Illinois.

Single-session tickets will be $2 each and will be on sale at the Assembly Hall ticket booths prior to the start of each of the four sessions.

South Frosh seventh in Belleville West cage tournament

The Granite City South freshman basketball team came away with the seventh-place trophy last night in the Belleville West Freshman Invitational and in the process gained its first victory of the season.

Coach Nick Petrillo's charges defeated Belleville Althoff last night 37-33 to notch their first win against six defeats. They were led by Dave Edwards who had 13 points.

On Tuesday night, the young Warriors were beaten by the Belleville West "B" team 43-34. George Sykes led the Warriors in scoring with nine points. On Monday night, they had gone down to defeat at the hands of the West "A" team, 61-27. Sykes and Edwards each had nine points for the Warriors in that game.

The next game for the freshmen will be this Monday, Jan. 9, when they host Cahokia at 6 p.m.

Regional cage tourneys set

Assignment of teams to the regional level in both classes of the 71st edition of the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) boys state basketball tournament series has been made.

A total of 733 downstate, suburban and non-Chicago Public League schools will compete.

There are 470 Class A schools (with enrollments of 750 or less) entered in 64 regionals, and 263 Class AA schools (with enrollments of 751 or more) entered in 56 regionals.

There are 62 schools in the Chicago Public League, which advances its champion to the Class AA state final tournament.

Last year, 729 schools were entered in the series; 474 competed in Class A and 258 (excluding Chicago Public League schools) in Class AA.

Schools are classified according to their enrollment on the last school day in September, as reported to the Illinois Office of Education and the IHSA office. In the case of all-boy schools, the enrollment is doubled.

In the case of three-year high schools, an additional one-third of the reported enrollment is added. In all instances, the four-year enrollment figure is that which is used for classification purposes in all IHSA series in which the competition is conducted under a classification format.

In both series, representatives of each school entered in their respective tournament will meet between Jan. 11 and Jan. 20 to rate the teams assigned to that regional.

Teams will be seeded and the pairings will be announced by the IHSA office shortly after completion of the seeding meetings.

On Tuesday, Jan. 10, the annual "rolling of the peas" to determine sectional pairings and the matchup of the super-sectional winners for the quarterfinal round of the state final tournament in each class will be conducted.

Dates for the seventh annual Class A tournament series are: regionals at 64 sites Feb. 20-24; sectionals at 16 sites Feb. 28, March 1 and 3 (except at Normal which is Feb. 28 and March 2); super-sectionals at eight sites March 7; state final tournament at Assembly Hall, Champaign, March 10-11.

The Class AA series dates are: regionals at 56 sites Feb. 27-March 3; sectionals at 14 sites March 7-8 and 10; super-sectionals at seven sites March 14, and the state finale at Assembly Hall, Champaign, March 17-18.

ASSIGNMENTS to all tournaments are based on the traditional IHSA geographic principle of minimizing loss of school time and travel.

North grapplers drop two at West

West won over the Steelers 39-18 in the junior varsity meet and 35-24 in the sophomore meet.

North took the decision in the freshman meet, 33-30.

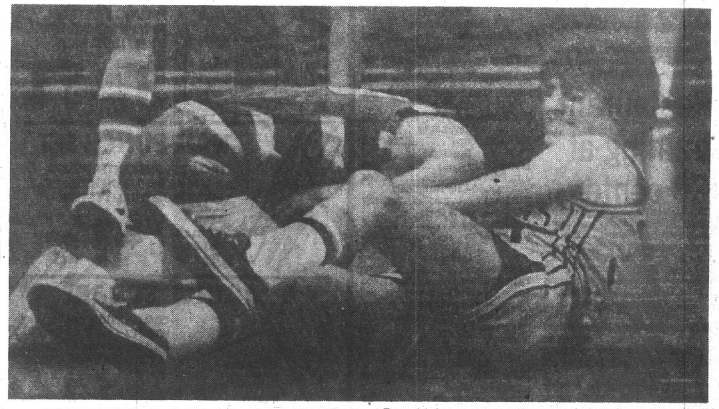

"We just didn't wrestle like we could have," said North coach George Nemeth. "A lot of times we'd have the bout won until the final few seconds and then it looked like we just gave in."

Results of the junior varsity meet were: 98 pounds-Pat Whelan (N) defeated Ross 4-0, 105-Russ Grasso (N) pinned Lang (2:45), 112-Glen Thompson (N) lost to Hessler 14-4, 119-Mark Fynch (N) was pinned by Hernandez (1:50), 126-Vic Peralez (N) lost to Muren 14-0, 132-Greg Shemwell (N) lost to Bevenue 2-0, 138-Bruce Uzunoff (N) lost to Pappnoth 10-8, 145-John Papp (N) was pinned by Olson (1:50).

155-Joe Bolt (N) defeated Bauman 6-2, 167-Mitch Steen (N) pinned Williamson (1:30), 185-Bryan Johnson (N) lost to Matzenbacher (5:00), heavyweight-Tom Shemwell (N) was pinned by Whitaker (1:45).

The sophomore results were:

BARNETT'S TERMITES' champions of the Metro Soccer tournament held the week of Dec. 19-24 in Collinsville. The Termites won the Senior Bantams Division championship by beating Collinsville 7-1, Hazelwood, Mo., 4-2 and Springfield, Ill., 4-3. Over the past four years, the Termites have a record of 80-15-5. Front row (left to right): Rich Voss, Andy Wicker, Scott Biason, John Wayne and Matt Chenevert, mascot. Second row: Scott Sortor, Chris Chenevert, Mike Houston, Chris Kahn, Jim Chomko and Barry Rideout. Third row: Neal Cove, Pete Moore, Tim Shevcik, Greg Ahlers and Steve Baroski. Back: Coach Jerry Chenevert.

North, South grapplers in weekend action

The wrestling scene on the varsity level at both Granite City high schools will get back on the regular season track this weekend after the long holiday break.

Tomorrow, both Granite City North and South will be involved in meets.

The Steelers of North will entertain Bethalto on the varsity and junior varsity levels, with the JV bouts set for 6:30 p.m. The varsity bouts will follow immediately after.

The South Warriors, fresh from taking their own holiday tournament, will travel to Belleville East to meet the school that finished fourth in that tourney. There will be bouts on all four levels (varsity, junior varsity, freshman and sophomore). Starting time is set for 6 p.m.

On Saturday, both North and South will travel to Peoria Richwoods High School for a 1 p.m. quadrangular meet with the hosts and Pekin. Pekins' Chinks just finished third in the South holiday tourney.

Restaurant training at GC center

Restaurant managers and other food service operators have only a short time to prepare their workers for new legislation that goes into effect July 1, 1978, according to Assistant School Supt. Frank Kraus, Belleville Area College's Granite City coordinator.

Kraus is reminding food service managers that the law which requires certified sanitation personnel in each establishment will take effect on that date.

BAC is offering food service sanitation (an eight-week course) at the Granite City Extension Center and at other centers throughout its district during the spring 1978 semester so that workers can obtain the knowledge they need to pass certification examinations.

The food service sanitation course will begin Tuesday, Jan. 17. Classes will be from 7 to 9:45 each Tuesday evening for eight weeks. Tuition for the course is $16.50.

Registration for all Granite City BAC courses will be held Jan. 9, 10 and 11 from 3:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. in Room 135 of GC High School South. Further information may be obtained by calling 876-7570.

Pack 122 top Cub recruiters

Over 40 members of Cub Scout Pack 122 sponsored by the Wilson School PTA will be treated to dinner Tuesday, Jan. 10, at the Granite City McDonald Restaurant by the restaurant management.

The dinner is in recognition for winning a Cub Scout recruiting drive held in the Quad-Cities. Pack 122 finished in first place by recruiting 23 new Cub Scouts.

John Dawson is the Cubmaster.

Early family life molds young pupils

By KAREN BURNS

The key to elementary education is a child's family life, according to a professor of elementary education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

David Bear, former chairman of the Department of Elementary and Early Childhood Education, has said that if education is to be improved, it must start at home.

He stressed that the first five years of a child's life are the most important, as a child's intellect often depends upon his home environment during these years.

Bear said that until the child reaches kindergarten, his home life shapes the language, ideas and concepts of his environment. He believes it is important, therefore, that the child be intellectually stimulated during this time.

He also said that though the child can be taught through day care centers, it is most important to strengthen family life. This can be done, he said, by teaching responsible parenthood or expanding the child's experiences.

But Bear feels it is not yet known exactly how the school can deal with a deficit in a child's home environment. He explained that children who are intellectually stimulated often will need continuation of this type of stimulation once they enter school.

When school takes over, Bear said, the child is usually taught within a group unless he shows unique talents for a particular skill. If this happens, the child is taught on an individual basis.

Bear explained that individual teaching is preferable to "skipping" the child from grade to grade. He said one reason for this is that the child may only be proficient in one area, and individual tutoring would help strengthen only this one area.

Bear received his master's degree and doctorate from Washington University. He was an elementary school principal in Alton before joining the SIUE faculty in 1957. He will be retiring from the university on Feb. 28 but will hold the rank of professor emeritus.

During the past 21 years, he has seen many changes, including more emphasis placed on the child and his needs.

He added that though teachers are better prepared, the school as a social institution has not changed as rapidly as other social institutions. Bear sees resistance mostly on the part of the parents. He said they are used to the "old way of doing things."

"We are somewhat creatures of tradition," said Bear. "We accept scientific development, but we don't accept new ideas in social systems."

Bear hopes to continue teaching in a part-time capacity. He would also like to consult in the area of reading, and may also consider private tutoring for children with reading problems.

Public meeting on area blood needs

Collection of blood to cover the increasing needs of Quad-City area residents will be the purpose of a public meeting of the Blood Program Committee, Tri-City American Red Cross Chapter, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 10, in the Nameoki School cafeteria.

Members of the chapter's board of directors will meet Tuesday with concerned citizens to discuss the blood program, community blood needs and how to increase collections, it was announced today.

More volunteer blood donations are required and how best to meet the constant and ever-demanding blood needs to residents is the primary objective of the meeting.

Further information may be secured from Mildred Meehan at the Red Cross chapter office, 452-7184.

Bubblemasters plan dance, hockey teams

Plans for a Valentine dance, underwater hockey games and the 1978 dive schedule will be the principal topics discussed by the Bubblemasters Scuba Diving Club at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Civil Defense Center, 1411 Nineteenth St.

Presiding will be the club's new officers, including Dee Adams, president; Larry Earney, vice president; Ron Ruppel, treasurer and Barbara Gates, secretary.

Adams said the annual dance will take place Saturday, Feb. 18, at the Croatian Home, 12th Street and Madison Avenue, with music provided by Free and Easy.

The public is invited to attend, and ticket information may be obtained from Sharon Earney, chairman, at 877-5966.

The club's underwater hockey teams currently are preparing for the 1978 season with the first match set for Wednesday, Jan. 18, at a St. Louis County pool.

Bubblemasters' teams captured first and second place in the St. Louis Underwater Hockey League last year, the club's first season of competition.

Adams announced a new class for prospective divers will start Jan. 18 at the Bi-County YMCA, near Belleville, with details available from Phil Lamm, at 931-0987, instructor.

Four local families, including 11 children, were recipients of Christmas baskets donated by the Bubblemasters, the new president said.

The holiday gift baskets included food, clothing and toys and were financed with proceeds from an auction during the Labor Day weekend dive, plus items donated by club members.

Dale Orr, Max Legate and Larry Earney delivered the gifts on Christmas Eve, Adams said.

Final plans also will be made Sunday evening for a diving trip to the Florida Keys, scheduled in March.

Anyone interested in diving is invited to attend the meeting to learn more about the Bubblemasters' program of activities, Adams said today.

Expect $1.5 million cut in farm taxes

A tax loss of approximately $1.5 million will result in Madison County under new farmland assessment legislation which became effective Jan. 1, James Barton, supervisor of assessment, reported.

The law, Barton explained, established a minimum assessment per acre on productive farmland, which means that the Madison County Board of Review will be required to downgrade most existing assessments on farmland.

The new law also follows two years work in which Barton and the review board upgraded many rural property assessments in working toward a 33.33 percent assessment ratio which is due to be fixed for the 1977 year.

According to Barton the new legislation known as House Bill 990. permits the Illinois Department of Revenue to establish a maximum assessment on productive farmland.

This figure, he said, has been fixed by the state for Madison County at $248 per acre.

The top valuation for such property has been fixed in Madison County by the county assessing system at $360 per acre.

Consequently, he said, the county will have to downgrade most of its present farmland assessments by 34.8 percent.

Farmland assessments presently total $80,267,800, a figure that will be cut to $52,334,600 under the figures established by the state, Barton noted.

On the basis of present tax rates this will mean a loss of about $1.5 million, he added. The problem primarily will affect the eastern part of the county and will have little effect on urban area assessments and tax collections, he explained.

Venice fitness course signup

Registration for adult physical fitness, a course offered at Venice through the extension program of Belleville Area College, will continue from now through Jan. 13 between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the Venice High School guidance office.

Albert Schaefer, coordinator for the Venice BAC extension program, points out that any course in which there is sufficient interest may be offered by BAC in the Venice facilities. Further information concerning BAC extension courses can be obtained from Schaefer at 877-6910.

Food service supervisors will be required July 1; course to begin

The SIUE Office of Conferences and Institutes (692-2660) will offer an eight-week course this winter on applied food service sanitation.

Bonnie Little, coordinator, said classes will meet in Room 2405 of Peck Classroom Building from 7 until 9 p.m. on Mondays, beginning Jan. 9. Instructors will be William Crabb, manager of food service at the university, and Eleanor Alexander, manager of food production.

Registration for the course is $40. Cost of the textbook is included in the registration fee.

Coursework will include a review of state of Illinois food service sanitation rules and regulations.

Effective July 1, all food service establishments will be required to have a certified supervisor on duty during normal operating hours.

Upon completion of the course, an examination will be given to determine qualification for certification, Crabb said.

Since enrollment in the course will be limited, pre-registration is necessary.

Student tells of railroad disaster

The January issue of Illinois History magazine — a publication for teenagers sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Society — has as its theme disasters in Illinois.

One of the articles is by Allan Shepard, a student at Granite City High School South, Richard S. Taylor, supervisor, school services, Illinois State Historical Library, points out.

Text of Shepard's article follows:

One of the worst tragedies ever to occur in Madison County was a rail accident and explosion at the village of Wann (East Alton).

On Jan. 21, 1893, the Big Four Railroad's Southwestern Limited steamed toward Wann at 47 miles per hour.

It was due in Wann at 8:48 a.m. but was 13 minutes behind schedule. On the outskirts of town, the train jumped an open switch and shot headlong into a string of tank cars filled with coal oil.

Upon impact, two tank cars burst and caught fire, setting ablaze the engine and the first two cars of the Limited.

Just prior to the crash, the engineer set his brakes and instructed his firemen to jump from the right side of the engine.

The engineer went out the left, where he was engulfed in flames and killed. All that remained of his body was the trunk. His limbs were completely burned off.

The fireman escaped with only minor cuts and bruises, and none of the passengers was seriously injured.

A railroad rescue crew and medical team headed by Dr. W. Haskell arrived on the scene in minutes, and a group of local residents gathered around.

A railroad spokesman, fearing that the rest of the oil might explode, advised bystanders to leave.

Just a quarter of a mile from the scene, the rescue crew and medical team heard a muffled "poof" and felt a surge of heat that singed their coats.

Turning toward the scene, they saw an explosion in the noon sky so great that its brightness blocked the sun.

When the force of the explosion hit the ground, it reportedly shook the earth and lasted a half minute.

As the roar died away, the crew heard the screams of the crowd as sheets of flaming oil and metal rained down on them.

The fire burned for 300 yards in every direction.

People within 100 yards of the explosion had little or no chance of escaping.

Twenty-three people died immediately. At least 75 were injured, and 18 more died in the next few days.

Many observers blamed railroad switchman Albert L. Gratten for the tragedy.

Although never proven guilty, Gratten, who had been working for the railroad only a month, was accused of leaving the switch open.

He denied the charge of carelessness until his death, but this did little to console the families of those who died in the Wann train disaster.

Urges Quad-Cityan for Ill. Senate post

Steve Maragides of Madison, who has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for state senator in the 56th Illinois Legislative District, is stressing his local residence.

An attorney, he was born in Granite City and was raised in Madison.

He received his undergraduate education at Northwestern University and his LLB degree at the University of Illinois.

In discussing his candidacy, Maragides commented, "Not in recent history has there been a state senator from the Quad-Cities, and it is about time we elected one."

Maragides said he will make his position on specific isues known as the campaign progresses. The primary election is set for March 21.

A former assistant Illinois attorney general and former assistant Madison County state's attorney, Maragides is presently a hearing officer for the Illinois Department of Revenue.

He was an unsuccessful candidate for Madison County state's attorney in 1976.

Honor three for volunteer hospital work

Helen Bergfield, Mary Kristian and Louise Smith of St. Elizabeth Hospital are recipients of the Master Auxilian Certificate presented by Illinois Hospital Association president Robert W. O'Leary to 60 Illinois Auxilians at a recognition luncheon held during the 55th annual association meeting in Springfield.

Sponsored by the conference group on volunteer services, the statewide auxiliary-volunteer suborganization of IHA, this recognition is earned by attendance during the year at a minimum of three major educational meetings offered by the conference group and other allied health associations.

The conference group presents its educational programs on the premise that auxilians who have a clear understanding of the principles and purposes of their hospital service can better serve those institutions and their community.

Through the master auxilian, recognition is given to auxilians who have given significant service to their hospitals and expanded their knowledge of hospitals and volunteer service through continuing education, O'Leary said.

Since its inception in 1968, almost 500 Illinois auxilians have received this citation.

IHA is a non-profit, voluntary organization of institutional health care providers in Illinois. Current membership includes planning agencies, allied health professional organizations and 300 hospitals. IHA represents its member constituency in the Illinois legislature and serves in an advisory capacity to its members.

High-caliber legislators in both parties — Simon

By CONGRESSMAN PAUL SIMON
(Former state legislator from this district)

The anti-Washington feeling is so strong — and sometimes actions by those of us in Washington encourage it — that people outside of Washington do not recognize there are dedicated public servants who serve the national interest well.

Let me mention two, one a Democrat and one a Republican, both of whom face serious challenges in the near future.

The Democrat is Congressman Morris Udall of Arizona.

A lanky former basketball player, he combines wit with wisdom and compassion.

Chairman of the House Interior Committee, more than anyone else he is responsible for the adoption of legislation which puts some sensible restrictions on strip-mining, so that we do not wake up some day needing food and finding much of our land devastated.

Right now he is pushing a bill which calls for a commission to look at our free enterprise system and how we can make it healthier.

He points out, for example, that 20 years ago 400 of the top 500 largest corporations listed each year by Fortune magazine controlled two-thirds of the nation's corporate wealth.

Now, 200 of the top 500 control two-thirds of the nation's wealth. Udall asks, "Where will we be 20 years from now?"

He believes — and I agree — that we should be taking a hard look at the concentration of economic wealth to determine whether it could undermine the free enterprise system that has contributed so much to the vitality of this nation.

Rep. John Anderson of Rockford, Ill., is the number three person in the GOP leadership hierarchy.

But he shares the quality of great ability with Udall.

When John Anderson gets up to speak, the House listens. He is one of the finest natural orators of the House.

But it is not just the style of what he has to say that counts; it is what he has to say.

He is willing to take unpopular stands, an essential ingredient for an effective leader.

His stand in support of the Panama Canal treaties, for example, is not popular. But he knows that it is important for our national interest that the treaties are ratified.

When Gerald Ford's 1976 vice-presidential candidate was uncertain, there were many who favored Anderson. Time magazine included his picture and listed him as a likely prospect.

But both are respected members of Congress who contribute in a substantial way to making our nation finer.

So long as the two political parties continue to purduce people of the caliber of Udall and Anderson, there will be hope that we can preserve what is best about the United States, as we meet the opportunities to build a better tomorrow.

Mrs. Huebner appointed to planning post

Mrs. Nancy Huebner, a former Granite City resident, has been hired as transportation planner for the Litchfield Hills Regional Planning Agency in Litchfield, Conn.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Sternberg of Granite City and is married to Dennis Huebner, also a former Granite City resident.

For the last two years she has worked as an urban planner with the Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS), a regional transportation planning agency for Chicago and six counties in northeastern Illinois.

Her primary task there was relating energy problems to future transportation planning. She was also responsible for coordinating public input to the planning process and other aspects of transportation planning.

She graduated from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, where she received a bachelor's degree in urban studies.

She and her husband, who is interning at St. Mary's Hospital in Waterbury, live in Naugatuck, Conn.

Hurt on Nameoki

Jerry Kent Potillo, 31, Greenville, Ill., was injured when his auto, turning left from Johnson Road onto Nameoki Road, struck the post for the left turn signal in the median at 1:25 a.m. Wednesday.

Potillo bumped his lip on the steering wheel and suffered a possible concussion. He was taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was admitted for observation.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN JOHNSON. They were married in a candlelight ceremony at the Third Baptist Church. Formerly Miss Cindy Anita Crews, the bride is a daughter of Mrs. Lucille McLean, 2804 Sunset Drive, and the late Claud D. Crews.

(Don Ballard Photo)

Third Baptist scene of Johnson-Crews wedding

Miss Cindy Anita Crews and John E. Johnson exchanged wedding vows on Dec. 17 in an evening ceremony at the Third Baptist Church.

Vicki Simpson and Larry Smallie sang, "Evergreen," "You Light Up My Life," "Annie's Song," and The Lord's Prayer, accompanied by organist Jody Alexander.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Lucille McLean, 2804 Sunset Drive, and the late Claud D. Crews. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, 2565 Iowa St.

For her wedding the former Miss Crews chose a formal length Qiana gown fashioned with a high neckline and long sleeves accented with Venise lace.

The lace also encircled the hemline and chapel train. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Junior bridesmaids Cara Crews, the bride's sister, and Alicia Schremp, a niece of the bride, and the flower girl, Karen Goldsmith, were gowned in pink polyester crepe dresses worn with pink print voile capes.

Each of the attendants wore a Sweetheart rose set in a garland of baby's breath in her hair, and held three long stem pink roses, festooned with burgandy ribbons.

The groom chose Robert C. Moore as his best man. Bruce Van, James Shrader Jr., Roger Moore, Rick Young and Eugene Moore, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

A reception was held at the Whole Life Center immediately following the service. A dinner was served in the church fellowship hall after the rehearsal to members of the wedding party.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Granite City High School South and is a third year student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. School of Nursing. She also is employed at the Hope Clinic For Women.

The groom was graduated in 1972 from South High School and also graduated in 1976 from SIUE. He presently is an employee of Search Source, Inc.

They are residing in Granite City.

Karen Norris marries Airman Bruce Groshong

Poinsettias and hurricane lamps holding burning tapers provided the setting at the Mitchell United Presbyterian Church for the wedding on Dec. 23, of Miss Karen Lorein Norris and Airman Bruce M. Groshong.

The Rev. Jeffrey B. Cheadle performed a double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John Charles Norris, 133 Big Four Place, Mitchell. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Bruce Groshong, 3313 Princeton Drive.

For her wedding the bride wore a full length white Qiana Empire style gown created with a sweetheart neckline and long straight sleeves, accented with Venise lace.

Maid of honor was Miss Cheryl K. Lewis and the bridesmaids included Miss Suzanne E. Norris, a sister of the bride, and Mrs. Pam Bell.

Each attendant held an arrangement of pink and burgundy silk roses interminglded with sprigs of holly and baby's breath, centered with a burning candle.

Carrie Wilkerson, a cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a pink dress and carried a basket of pink and burgundy carnations.

Phillip Hahn, the groom's cousin, was the ringbearer.

Paul Ashcraft attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Stan Meyers, a cousin of the groom, and Tom Groshong, a brother of the groom.

The newly married couple received 300 guests at a reception held at the Croatian Home in Madison. Mr. and Mrs. Groshong hosted a rehearsal dinner in their home.

Both young people graduated from Granite City High Schools in 1977. The bride attended Belleville Area College and was employed at Schermers in Madison.

Mrs. Beulah Fox presents lesson

Mrs. Beulah Fox was in charge of the devotions at the first meeting of this year of the Honor Circle at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, Wednesday.

The group met in the morning for a quilting session and were served a dessert course at noon by Mrs. Lucy Weaver.

Mrs. Weaver, chairman of the circle, gave a report of the executive committee meeting at the afternoon business session.

Mrs. Fox opened the program with responsive readings on service and read an article by Norman Vincent Peale on "Happy New You."

She also spoke on articles by Ashton Ludden on "Walking With God" and "Workmen are Not Ashamed" written by Edna C. Carlton. In closing, the members recited the Lord's Prayer.

Also present were Mrs. Edith Etherton, Mrs. Winifred Reimers and Mrs. Pearl Campbell.

Regionals

sectional games are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

All super-sectional games except the game at Evanston (Northwestern) in Class AA will be night games. The game at Evanston will begin at 4 p.m. In previous years, the game in both classes at DeKalb (NIU) was played in the afternoon.

In the 1978 Class AA series, there are 36 four-team regional tournaments, one five-team regional meet and 19 six-team regional tournaments. In the Class A series, there are 43 seven-team regionals and 22 eight-team tournaments.

Boys basketball series terms and conditions require, wherein possible, that the Class AA regionals be either a four-team or six-team format, and that the Class A regionals be a seven-team or eight-team format.

MADISON is the defending Class A champion and will open defense of its title in the Dupo regional. Peoria (High School) is the defending Class AA champion and will begin defense of its title in the Peoria (Manual) regional.

Regional assignments follow:

In addition to the Madison Trojans, Venice's Red Devils will also be entered in the Dupo regional tournament. The other five entries will be St. Henry of Belleville, Columbia, Freeburg, Lovejoy and Dupo.

GRANITE CITY'S two Class AA entries, North and South, will be broken up and will play in separate regional meets.

The only way for them to meet each other in post-season play would be if they were both to win their respective regionals and face each other in sectional competition.

North's Steelers will play in the Wood River regional along with Edwardsville, Roxana and Wood River.

The Warriors from South will be in the tough Collinsville regional along with Cahokia, East St. Louis Senior and the Kahoks.

Rites for former Venice resident

Funeral services were held at a Potosi (Mo.) funeral home on Monday, Jan. 2, for William Clarence "Red" Austin, 53, of 2476 Renois Lane, Cahokia, a former resident of Venice.

He died at his home Dec. 31, Mr. Austin retired two years ago because of ill health, from the Northwest Drayage, St. Louis, where he had worked as a truck driver.

Mr. Austin was born in Moorehouse, Mo., April 27, 1924, and resided in the Quad-City area for 25 years. He moved to Cahokia 1½ years ago.

Survivors include his wife, the former Mildred Head; four daughters, Mrs. Judy Austin Maddox of Silverton, Ore., Mrs. Ned (Rita) Esquivel of Cahokia, Mrs. Steve (Lynda) Skoklo of Granite City and Verla Austin, at home; six sons, William C. Austin Jr., Winfield, Mo., Patrick Austin, Silverton, Ore., Charles Austin, St. Louis, Vance, Lance and Terry Austin, at home; 14 grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Daniel (Patsy) Plumer and Mrs. Leonard (Anita) Boyd, both of Texas, and Mrs. Oren (Wanda) Hundley, Shorewood, Ill.; two brothers, Ben Austin of Texas and Henry Austin of Sterling, Ill.

Burial was in a Potosi (Mo.) cemetery.

State regulation of hospital rates sought

Has public concern about rising hospital costs reached the point that state regulation should be considered?

Dr. George T. Wilkins Jr. of Granite City, president of the Illinois State Medical Society, was guest speaker.

Also presenting talks were three St. Elizabeth Hospital administrators, Executive Vice-President Ted Eilerman, Controller Frank McGinnis and Assistant Controller Jerry Bolandis.

They spoke for passage by the Illinois General Assembly of Health Finance Authority legislation that has been introduced.

While aware of some disadvantages of creating a state commission to regulate hospitals and approve or disapprove of rate changes, the speakers said St. Elizabeth Hospital has nothing to fear from such scrutiny because it operates with higher efficiency than most, and plows back all profits into needed facilities and equipment.

The chief problem confronting hospitals in Illinois today is the fact that Medicare and Medicaid payments amount to only 65 cents of each dollar of cost, requiring other patients to pay $1.15, the Chamber board was told.

Another problem — the general escalation of costs — may be curbed now that regional health systems agencies are acting to avoid duplication of costly health care equipment purchases within a community.

But such agencies are in their early stages of existence and some are failing to function at all, leading to the belief that lawmakers may repeal HSA powers, Dr. Wilkins commented.

The proposed Illinois Health Finance Authority Act (SB-1060 and HB-2339), would establish the Illinois Health Finance Authority as the sole entity in this state empowered to approve hospital rates.

Rates so established would be binding on all Illinois hospitals.

The proposed law designed to:

A. Promote effective and economic delivery of quality hospital services.

B. Establish an equitable and manageable system to assure all purchasers of services that hospital rates are equitably determined.

C. Provide for a method of apportioning hospital financial requirements without unfair discrimination.

D. Provide for a mechanism that can prospectively assess the reasonableness of a hospital's financial requirements and its rate structure.

The nine-member Authority created by the legislation would consist of five public members, two representatives of "third-party payers" and two representatives of Illinois hospitals.

Only the five public members would be entitled to vote on matters concerning hospital rate requests and the Authority's policies and procedures, Chamber directors were told.

The Authority would be responsible for reporting annually to the governor and the members of the General Assembly concerning its proposed budget, goals, objectives and overall performance.

To finance this program, the Authority would levy and collect an annual fee from each hospital.

Fees collected by the Authority would be deposited in a specially earmarked fund and could only be expended upon appropriations authorized by the Illinois General Assembly.

The Authority would be empowered to develop and adopt — following public hearings — a uniform system of financial reporting for hospitals.

It would have the power to request copies of any of the rates, costs, income, utilization and services of a hospital.

Although the Authority would be prohibited from acting as a health planning entity, it would have to abide by the determinations of the regional health planning agencies and provide assistance to those agencies upon their request.

The Authority could conduct reviews or investigations to determine whether a hospital's rates are reasonably related to its financial requirements and if they apply equitably to all.

The Act would require under normal circumstances that the hospital must provide a full 90-calendar-day notification to the Authority — with appropriate supporting documentation — prior to the proposed effective date of a rate change.

The Act would require the Authority to recognize, in establishing rate structures, only the reasonable and necessary financial requirements of a hospital.

It was developed around the premise that, for a rate setting system to be effective, all major third-party groups must agree, or be bound by law, to participate.

Therefore, provisions have been incorporated into the proposed law to relieve both providers and those who pay from being compelled to abide by the rates approved by the Authority, if the federal or state government elects not to participate in or not to comply with the provisions of the new law.

To encourage efficiency on the part of the hospitals, the Authority would provide positive and negative incentives to recognize situations in which a hospital's management operated more or less effectively than anticipated.

Lamb reinstated, Vincent is fired

Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Randall Lamb, who had been suspended for 30 days by Sheriff John Maeras, has been reinstated to duty and given full back pay after the department's merit commission ruled there was insufficient evidence to sustain Mareas' request for disciplinary action against Lamb.

Meanwhile, radio-dispatcher Michael Vincent, a sheriff-candidate, was fired Tuesday.

Lamb, who has been quoted as having cooperated with federal authorities investigating Madison County governmental operations, was suspended for allegedly violating the department's regulations by not paying all his personal bills on time.

Lamb's co-worker and friend, Deputy Richard Anderson, also was suspended for 30 days on other allegations.

The merit commission has not yet announced its ruling on Anderson's case.

Lamb's attorney, Jack A. Strellis, charged his client's suspension may have been retaliation for Lamb's cooperation with federal authorities and a federal grand jury.

In a news release Wednesday, Sheriff Maeras said the department has compiled with the merit commission's orders to reinstate Lamb and give him back pay.

Maeras said, "We believe that the merit commission has done a commendable job in evaluating the evidence and testimony in what was a long and difficult case."

"The department has no further comment on this action and considers the case closed."

Vincent, who is among those seeking the Democratic nomination for sheriff, was discharged Tuesday for failing to take a leave of absence during his campaign for the office.

Maeras, who is not a candidate, acknowledged that the rule applies to deputies, and that Vincent doesn't have that title.

The sheriff added, "While the rules do not necessarily apply to communications and jail personnel, I think you must agree that the imposition of the rule on deputies dictates that I must, in good conscience, apply the same type of rule to employees."

Sanitary board plans budget hearing Jan. 16

The Metro East Sanitary District board in a meeting Wednesday authorized the installation and operation of a burglar alarm system in its new garage and office quarters at 6200 Forest Blvd., Washington Park.

Board members agreed to secure the installation and services of the Police Alert Security System of East St. Louis at a monthly operational cost of $174.

They noted this will permit the elimination of four watchmen now on the district payroll.

After meeting in the East St. Louis district office, the board reconvened at 4:30 p.m. yesterday in the Granite City office to discuss the receipt of additional sewage treatment fees from the city of East St. Louis.

The board was informed that East St. Louis made a payment last week of $35,000, bringing to $60,000 the total amount of fees which have been paid by the city during the past year. A previous payment of $25,000 was made last summer.

The city now owes a balance of $52,000 in sewage treatment fees and pumping operations, board members were told.

The district's new 1978 operations budget will be presented in a public hearing at 4:30 p.m. Jan. 16 in the Granite City office, 1801 Madison Ave. The board will meet immediately after the hearing to act on adoption of the new budget.

Adoption of the budget on that date will clear the way for issuance of tax anticipation warrants in a meeting scheduled Jan. 30 at 10 a.m. in the East St. Louis office.

Sale of anticipation warrants is expected to solve immediate financing problems, particularly in meeting district payrolls until tax collections begin later this year.

Tree of Lights short $1,644

The Salvation Army Tree of Lights to finance the traditional Christmas program for area needy families today stands at $21,356, or $1,644 short of the $23,000 goal.

James Jeffries, campaign chairman, said donations still are being sought to cover expenses of the holiday gift project, which provides food, clothing and toys to less fortunate families in the Quad-Cities.

Donations may be sent to: Salvation Army, P.O. Box 338, Granite City, Ill. 62040, or brought in person to the Corps' headquarters, 3007 E. 23rd St., Jeffries said.

ANDERSON HOSPITAL OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY

Oliver C. Anderson Hospital is one year old, Daniel A. Hicks, executive vice-president, said today in announcing that the hospital at Illinois Route 162 and Old Edwardsville Road, Maryville, will celebrate the first anniversary of its opening with an open house Sunday afternoon, Jan. 8, from 1:30 to 5:30.

The public is being invited to tour the hospital, guided by members of the staff and the auxiliary. Refreshments will be served. The hospital reports serving 13,980 people in the past year.

CAR IN CANAL

Ray Viller, at 12:20 p.m. Wednesday, observed an auto partially in the Hartford Canal near Lewis and Clark Park and notified the Madison County Sheriffs department. The car was towed and had front end damage. According to the Sheriff's department, the car belongs to Maria Harrington, Alton, and had not been reported stolen. How the car got into the canal has not been determined, but is under investigation, deputies said.

BOAT, MOTOR TAKEN

A boat, motor and trailer, valued at a total of $4,400, were stolen from the yard of Thomas Flaugher, 2549 North St., between Dec. 31 and Monday. Flaugher told Madison County sheriff's deputies Tuesday. He said the thieves probably would have required a vehicle with a trailer hitch to tow the boat from the lot.

Youth robs woman, abducts motorist

Police are searching for a man, about 20 or 21 years old, who took a woman's purse by force in Edwardsville about 11:15 a.m. Tuesday and who then forced a motorist at gunpoint to drive him to the area of Sambo's Restaurant in Granite City.

Mrs. Angeline M. Schmidt, 67, Edwardsville, told authorities a man grabbed her purse behind the Kroger store in the 200 block of Hillsboro Avenue in Edwardsville, knocking her to the ground, and ran from the scene. The purse contained about $160 cash and personal papers.

A witness saw a man of the same description display a gun and order a motorist to drive him from the scene.

The victim, Gary Day, Edwardsville Estates (formerly Greenboro Mobile Home Park), said he had parked his car at the rear of Sheppard Office Supply Co. in downtown Edwardsville and was reaching over to lock the passenger door when a man got in the car, displayed an automatic handgun and ordered him to drive.

Day said the gunman gave him directions as they went west on Route 157 to Interstate 270. The man searched through the purse, removed the money and threw the purse out of the window on Route 157.

They then drove west on Interstate 270 to Route 203 and south into Granite City. The robber told Day to give him his wallet and Day complied. About $5 was taken out of the wallet, which was then thrown back at Day.

When the car got to Sambo's Restaurant, Day was ordered to pull to the curb and stop. The man jumped out and ordered Day to "beat it." Day drove back to his home and called the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

The robber was described as about 6 feet tall, weighing about 170 pounds, and having long blond hair. He wore a stocking cap which was orange, white and another color, blue jeans, a blue jean jacket and dark brown boots with pointed toes, possible cowboy boots.

Police arrested a youth matching that description in the 2400 block of Kirkpatrick Homes at 3:55 p.m. Tuesday and held him for questioning by Edwardsville police, but the youth was released at 5:10 p.m. Tuesday after officers concluded he probably was not the same youth.

Services Friday for father, son

Double funeral services are set at 1 p.m. Friday for Jerry W. Gerkin Sr., 21, and his son, Jerry W. Jr., 2½ years, who died at 11:45 p.m. Monday in a fire which destroyed their mobile home at 10½ Jones Park Drive, Pontoon Beach.

The services will take place at a Granite City funeral home. Burial will be at Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville Township.

Survivors include Mrs. Cynthia (Dickerson) Gerkin, the wife and mother; Mr. Gerkin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry (Frances) Gerkin of Sorento, Ill.; his sisters, Mrs. Bruce (Kim) Cavins and Mrs. Georgia Lindley, both of Granite City; and the child's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald (Roberta) Dickerson of Granite City.

Special centers to register new voters

The final series of special voter registration centers will be conducted during the weekend in the Quad-City area.

The centers will be conducted by deputies of the office of County Clerk Evelyn Bowles to accept registration from voters who are newly qualified to vote in the primary election March 21.

The last of the registration periods in a series that began in late December, include:

Granite City Trust & Savings Bank, 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., Friday; A&P Store, 20th Street and Madison Avenue, noon to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Schermer's Market, Madison, noon to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Village Hall, Pontoon Beach, 3937 Lake Drive, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday.

Venice City Hall, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday; Eagle Park Improvement Association, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

TOOLS ARE TAKEN

Four tool boxes containing about $250 worth of tools were stolen from the garage of Fastino Valencia, 1701 Spring St., between Dec. 31 and 6:45 p.m. Wednesday. Entry was believed gained through an unlocked side door. The lock was broken from a large stationary tool box, but nothing is known missing from that box.

ALBERT HUDZIK

Hudzik is new president of M-V Rotary

Albert Hudzik, city comptroller of Madison, was elected as president of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club during the group's Wednesday noon meeting in the Madison Memorial Center, Seventh and Lee streets.

He will take office July 1.

Other officers elected were: Thomas Fields, first vice-president; Jack Lee, second vice-president; Fred Schmidt, secretary; Al Weider, treasurer, and Roy Jackson, sergeant-at-arms.

Directors elected were: W. F. "Mick" Strange, Ray Edwards, John Blasingame, Wade James, Harvey Miller, Webber Starkey and Henry Gray, the retiring president.

GC Rotary honors repeat state champ South soccer team

The Granite City High School South soccer team and its coaches were honored by the Granite City Rotary Club Tuesday at a luncheon held in the YMCA.

The South team won the Illinois state soccer championship two years in a row, 1976 and 1977.

The guest speaker was Ray Sonnenberg, a National Football League official and also vice-president of an Edgemont bank.

Sonnenberg stressed determination, dedication and goal-setting, both in athletics and life.

He told the South players and Rotarians that athletics teach a person to be successful in life.

Giving examples of success by these three points, he noted that Tom Dempsey, place kicker in professional football for the Los Angeles Rams, was born with only one and a half feet and one and a half hands.

Despite this handicap, Sonnenberg noted, in 1973 when Dempsey was with the New Orleans Saints he kicked a 63-yard field goal against the Detroit Lions, winning the game for his team 19-17 as time ran out.

After many months of practice, Frank Shorter, a marathon runner preparing for the 1972 Olympics, sprained his ankle and was about to give up when his wife gave him the encouragement to continue and began running with him.

According to Sonnenberg, the Olympic athlete and his wife ran 17 miles a day and chalked up a total of 24,000 miles while in training. Shorter went on to achieve success as a long-distance runner.

Sonnenberg recalled that Mark Spitz boasted a little about his belief that he was going to win five gold medals in the 1968 Olympics but only won three.

He received some ridicule about his earlier boast, but set his goals higher for the 1972 Olympics and won seven gold medals, breaking seven world records and seven United States records.

Sonnenberg told the group that Spitz swam 14,000 miles in practice to prepare himself — equal to swimming from San Francisco to Tokyo, Japan, and back.

Sonnenberg also pointed with pride to Granite City's Mark Goldschmidt, formerly a South soccer player, who was named twice as an all-American and three times as all-state.

He said that a person needs to practice like Goldschmidt or Spitz and have "the dedication and goals it takes to be a real champion in sports or life."

The plaque is to hang in the new Granite City Township Building, rather than with other soccer awards at South High.

Schaffner said the location will enable more local citizens to see it and appreciate the accomplishments of the soccer team.

Sewing classes offered

Making a garment with the least expenditure of time, energy, and money while still achieving a pleasing appearance will be the goal of a beginning sewing class to be taught at Granite City High School through Belleville Area College's extension program this spring.

The beginning class will teach such specifics as altering patterns, sewing with knits, sewing plaids, construction of sleeves, buttonholes and zippers.

Beginning seamstresses will choose a pattern or patterns and be guided, step by step, through the completion of the garments.

Intermediate sewing will emphasize methods used in achieving a professional look, shortcuts in constructing a garment, sewing with difficult fabrics, and achieving an original look in a garment.

Students enrolled in intermediate sewing may go into tailoring if they wish to do so, on an individual basis.

Registration for the sewing classes and more than 20 other general interest classes will be Jan. 9, 10 and 11 from 3:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. in Room 135 of Granite City High School South. Information on the BAC spring schedule in Granite City may be obtained by calling 876-7570.

Adjust salaries of legal staff

An ordinanance raising and adjusting the salaries of Granite City's four-man legal staff was enacted by the City Council Tuesday night.

At the same time, the aldermen approved another ordinance creating a city attorney's past to handle cases involving the city's various boards and commissions.

Mayor Paul Schuler told the council that the post will be filled by John Papa who was appointed by Mayor Schuler as an assistant city attorney last week.

Papa also will be assigned to aid Assistant City Attorney Irwin Slate Jr. in filing, prosecuting and defending court cases involving the city.

The ordinance establishing new salaries fixes the salary of City Attorney Lance Callis at $1,333 per month, up from $1,258. Callis was appointed to his office two weeks ago after George Filcoff Jr., who held that post, was appointed an associate judge of the Third Judicial Circuit.

Slate's salary was adjusted downward to $633 per month from the previous $832 monthly since Papa will be assigned to assist Slate and to handle some of the work volume previously assigned to Slate.

The salary of Casper Nighohossian, an assistant city attorney handling the city's condemnation procedures in the razing of dilapidated buildings, is set at $508 per month, up from $478 monthly.

An ordinance and a resolution under which the city accepted as a gift a tract of land at 2000 Washington Ave., owned by Christ D. Kacalieff, and gasoline pumps and tanks on the property owned by the Piasa Motor Co. of Alton, also were approved.

The resolution provided that the Street Department is to raze the structures on the property and salvage the pumps and tanks.

Nighohossian presented to the council a report on 11 condemnation cases he has pending, and explained the legal procedure involved in obtaining a condemnation judgement necessary to razing dilapidated housing.

Break into school

Vandals broke into Niedringhaus School, 29th and State streets, ransacking desks and searching cabinets, it was discovered Tuesday.

Entry was gained by breaking a west window. The lower pane to the visual aids room was kicked in.

On the second floor, desks in the speech room and principal's office were ransacked and two cabinets were searched. Nothing is known missing.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rogers, 1808 Primrose Ave., returned to their home Wednesday after spending a week with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Dorothy) Rogers, in Yorba Linda, Calif., and celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

Hosting the anniversary trip to California were the honoree's children, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers of California, and a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace (Iris Jean) Gauen of Granite City.

Assisting with the gift were the guests of honor grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Farrington and Miss Janet Gauen all of Granite City, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rogers and Mark Rogers, all of California.

They also have three great-grandchildren, Andrea Cline of Granite City, and Denise Rogers and Laurie Rice of California.

Mr Rogers, formerly of West Brooklyn, Ill., and his wife, the former Virginia Smoot of Taskee, Mo., were married on Dec. 26, 1927, in Poplar Bluff, Mo.

They have resided in Granite City for 32 years. Mr. Rogers started working in this area in 1941 at the Nesco Co., and retired in 1970 from the Williams Crusher and Pulverizer Co., in St. Louis.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are active members of the Third Baptist Church. Mr. Rogers has served as deacon at the church for 36 years and is also a member of Masonic Lodge 877.

Elkettes Club donate $1,500

Members of the Elkettes Club agreed to donate $1,500 to the Elks Lodge, during a meeting held Tuesday night at the lodge.

Mrs. Dean Graf, president, announced a meeting will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 11, with the trustees of the Elkettes and members of the men's club, to discuss the distribution of the donation.

Mrs. Olga Koenig offered the opening prayer and served as chairman of the hostess committee for the evening. She was assisted by Mrs. Ramona Burnett, and Mrs. Kay Taylor who was in charge of the entertainment.

The president also announced a pot luck dinner for members and guests is being planned with the date to be announced later.

Reports were given by Mrs. Mildred Jungels, secretary and Mrs. Virginia Johnson, treasurer.

Mrs. Ruby (Parker) Eannarino, a past president of the club was introduced as special guest for the evening. Mrs. Eannarino and her husband Gus, now reside in Pennsylvania and are in Granite City for the holidays visiting relatives and friends.

Those winning prizes were Mrs. Margaret Rush, Blanche Leuchter, Theresia Harding, Marge Hilker, Kathryn Pomeroy, Vesta Campbell, Sally Koval, Mrs. Eannarino, Bernice Grimm and Carolyn Boelling. The next meeting will be Feb. 7.

Bunko-Ettes meet at Blevins home

The Bunko-Ettes Club met last week in the home of Mrs. Juanita Blevins for a Christmas party and gift exchange.

After opening the gaily wrapped packages the group played games. Those winning prizes were Mesdames Florida Batson, Helen Lipchik, Angie Buehler, May Ebling and the hostess.

Residents attend Fleur-de-lis ball

Miss Laura Diane Oakley, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Francis of Granite City, was among the debutantes presented at the Fleur-de-lis ball held at the Chase Park Plaza on Dec. 27.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Oakley, Frontenac, Mo., and is a student at the University of Missouri, Columbia.

Other guests from this area attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Francis and son Tom, Michael Motel and Miss Mary Krill.

Mitchell PTA chili supper

The executive board of the Mitchell PTA held a special meeting Tuesday night to complete plans for a chili supper in lieu of the regular monthly meeting.

Plans were finalized to hold the fund raising event from 6 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 12, at the school. Tickets costing $1.75 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12 years of age may be purchased from any board member or at the door on the night of the project, it was noted.

Mrs. Judy Thomason, chairman of the affair, said the menu will also include hot dogs, beverages and dessert. Entertainment will also be provided she added.

Evening Guild to aid family

A dinner meeting of the Evening Guild of St. John United Church of Christ was held Monday evening at Charlie's Restaurant, attended by 16 members and a guest Mrs. Helen Pfeiffer.

Prayer was given by Mrs. Marie Klann and the president, Mrs. Thelma Suess was in charge of the business session.

She announced tentative plans for a bake sale to be held on Jan. 27, and also requested each member to bring a household item to the Feb. 6 meeting. All articles will be given to a family whose home was burned.

A program including slides of the Holy Land will be presented by Mr and Mrs. Jim Talley at the February gathering, it was noted.

Amvets Division meeting Sunday

A Fifth Division meeting will be held at Amvets Post 51, on Sunday, Jan. 8, according to an announcement made by Commander John Logan, at the New Year Eve's party held at the post.

He also announced donations were given to the Amvets Auxiliary for a project at the John Cochran Veteran Hospital in St. Louis, and to the Venice Crippled Children group and to an organization in Alton who aid mentally retarded children.

All who plan to attend the Sunday meeting are requested to bring articles for a crazy auction to be held during the day. Proceeds will be used for programs set for the ensuing year the commander added.

Guests attend dinner party

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Thompson, 4170 Breckenridge Lane, entertained house guests last week and hosted a dinner party on Monday for other relatives.

Visiting here from Gaithersburg, Md., were the hosts son Dr. Donald M. Thompson and daughter-in-law, Dr. Annette S. Thompson and children, Marc and Sharon.

Dinner guests included nephews and nieces of the Thompsons, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Quehn of Chesterfield, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. James D. Sager and daughter, Karen of Millstadt, Ill.

LICENSES ISSUED

Marriage licenses have been issued in St. Louis to B. C. Williams of Venice and B. L. Childers, St. Louis, and D. J. Pieper and P. A. Drennen, both of Granite City.

Sara, Daniel and Travis Terrell of Springfield, Ill., returned to their home during the weekend after spending a week visiting with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Travis of Granite City.

Parents of the visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Terrell became the parents of a son on Dec. 21 born at a hospital in Springfield. The infant weighed nine pounds, eight ounces, and has been named Eric Wayne.

Grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Travis, Mrs. Naomi Terrell, all of Granite City, and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Terrell of Arnold, Mo.

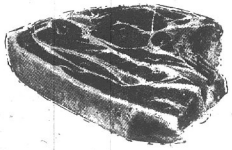

MR., MRS. DON COOK RETURN TO FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. Don Cook of Miami Beach, Fla., left Wednesday for their home after spending the holiday season with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bess of Venice.

While here the guests showed color slides of many overseas countries. They also visited with Mrs. Cook's parents in Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Coverage by Pat Foley and Val Evenden

SCENE OF TRAGEDY (top left picture). The double-wide mobile home was destroyed by fire Monday night in Pontoon Beach. Jerry Gerkin Sr. and his 2½-year-old son Jerry Jr., were killed. The two were found near a back door that Mr. Gerkin was unable to open. The home was engulfed in flames in minutes. Mrs. Cynthia Gerkin was pulled safely out a side window by a neighbor and his friend, but sustained numerous severe cuts from the jagged glass of the window.

FIRE CONTINUES to burn (lower left) inside the mobile home of Mrs. Gilda McGuire, 1220 Douglas Ave., Venice, but Venice firemen next gear their efforts to saving the house next door, belonging to Leslie Herron. Smoke and flames billow from the Herron attic and siding in this alley view of Tuesday's fire.

BARBECUE PIT (below) standing outdoors is all that remains of the contents and mobile home of Mrs. Gilda McGuire, 1220 Douglas Ave., where she and her three children, Cameron, four years, Tyson, two years, and Latanya, seven months, lived until Tuesday. The 60-foot structure was destroyed.

VOLUNTEER FIREMAN David Courtois (bottom left) directs water through burned aluminum siding of the McGuire mobile home. Seven dwellings to the west of the mobile home and two on the far side of the house next door, which also burned, might have been endangered had wind conditions been different.

BEFORE BLAZE GAINS a big foothold in the attic, an attempt is made to get at the flames from outside the Herron dwelling. Two firemen equipped with compressed air tanks were inside the house at 1222 Douglas Ave., Venice, when the roof collapsed. Fortunately, it lodged on top of the ceiling and neither man was injured, Fire Captain Tom Scaturro said.

A wave of tragic fires here last week and this week has called attention to the hazards of the residential heating season—and has spotlighted the fact that some relatively isolated areas continue to lack fire protection service.

Legislation introduced by State Representative Everett Steele and enacted into law a year ago provides a solution for those not served by a fire department, if they take the necessary action.

"Several areas have been assigned to the Long Lake and Mitchell fire districts, but there still are a few areas left unprotected" in the Quad-Cities, Rep. Steele told the Press-Record this week.

One of the unprotected areas, a portion of Chouteau Island, was the scene of a fire Dec. 30 that left a family homeless. Eight persons fled the blazing residence.

The "no man's land" situation can be avoided if any five property owners in a neighborhood petition for inclusion within a firefighting district. In such instances, the state fire marshal has authority to assign the homes to the nearest non-municipal fire department on a fee basis.

Reassignments can be made up to a maximum of six years, during which elections can be held to formally join a district and pay taxes instead of fees.

The law also permits residents to negotiate with the nearest municipal or non-municipal fire district for protection under a contractual agreement, based on a specified amount per call or per year.

The Illinois General Assembly has tried hard to eliminate situations in which no emergency firefighting help can be obtained. Residents without fire service can and should act promptly to utilize such a constructive law.

Profit motive provides the incentive to improve products

Illinois Farm Bureau—One of the risks of editorial commentary is that it must be so compressed as to run the risk of failing to do justice to the subject. Nonetheless, we assume that risk in order to call attention to a recent series of three articles by Illinois Congressman Tom Railsback in which he makes some astute observations about America's free enterprise system.

Coincidentally to the birth of America, Railsback points out, it was in 1776 that a professor at the University of Glasgow in Scotland wrote a book entitled "Wealth of Nations." The man's name was Adam Smith.

In his book, Professor Smith spelled out an economic system based on three key principles—the right to private ownership of property, the need for a profit motive, and a rule of the marketplace that customers ultimately determine the goods that are produced. These principles were to be the foundation of what we know as the free enterprise system.

Our newly-born nation, whether the framers of our Constitution realized it or not, was to become the laboratory to test Adam Smith's ideas.

Today, this nation's economy still relies predominantly on Smith's concept of the free marketplace. The push and pull of supply and demand—and signals from high or low prices and wages, Railsback points out—determine what goods will be produced, how those goods will be produced, and how those goods will be distributed among the people.

Not least among the benefits of the free enterprise system have been the technological advances that were made possible. For example, says Cong. Railsback, "competition in the free marketplace allowed development of simple agricultural tools used 200 years ago into the sophisticated equipment we take for granted today. The profit motive provided the incentive for improvement on existing designs to attract more customers than the competition."

Free enterprise also is synonomous with opportunity. Under our market system, men and women from all walks of life have the freedom to develop abilities and talents—regardless of their economic status, race, religion or sex.

In reality, Railsback points out, free enterprise is part and parcel of the totality of liberties that make up a free society.

"In socialist and communist systems," he says, "power tends to reside in a few—the planners and government officials, primarily. In democratic free enterprise systems, power is diffused. It really does rest with the people. They are the ones who elect government officials, and they are the ones who use their earnings and income to 'vote' for the products they want and to determine how those products are distributed."

We agree with the congressman and fervently hope that the people of America never lose sight of the unparalleled advantages that a free enterprise system has made possible.

Tax revision plan seen as likely to be enacted into law

The implication is that what the Department of Health, Education and Welfare takes away, the Internal Revenue Service will give back. It does not, of course, work that way.

But the $25 billion tax cut package does seem designed not only to cut the rates for individuals, but to encourage greater business activity and, hopefully, more jobs.

Rates would be reduced outright next Oct. 1, according to the Carter proposals. Individual cuts would take the form of reduced percentage rates or increased personal credits.

Corporate tax rates would be slashed by four percent in two stages through Jan. 1, 1980.

The president also suggests that taxes for unemployment insurance be cut while investment tax credits are maintained at present levels instead of being decreased as scheduled.

The end of the excise tax on telephone bills, a luxury tax adopted during World War II, is also a part of the Carter program and is welcome.

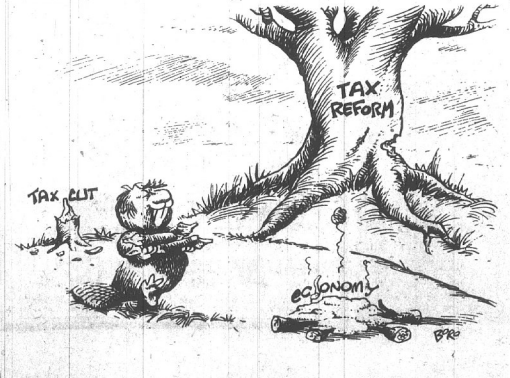

Little opposition is likely to develop for the tax cut plans. The goal of business stimulation demands no less, especially in the wake of the Social Security tax boosts.

Even so, the president's program seems destined for a rough journey through Congress, primarily because of its tentative bids for "reform." The Carter hope of putting a 50 percent ceiling on the deductibility of business meals has stirred the wrath of businesspeople and labor unions alike.

The president dropped more ambitious efforts to revise capital gains benefits.

The Carter tax package seems to be a workmanlike program to stimulate business activity with corresponding benefits throughout the economic structure.

It is not a "reform" program, however, which probably enhances its overall potential for surviving the congressional processes.

Driver education—a target in some states

By FRANK MACOMBER

The insurance folks say that driver education for minor teen-agers is worse than no auto safety program at all.

They make the rather startling claim in so many words in a report on a study conducted by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. The institute is an insurance industry-oriented group.

Conclusions of a study by Dr. Leon S. Robertson and Dr. Paul L. Zador of the institute contend that driver education for teen-agers greatly increases the number of licensed drivers but fails to cut down driver involvement in fatal crashes.

"The net effect is much higher death involvement rates per 10,000 population, on average, in states with greater proportions of 16-to-17-year-olds receiving driver education," the researchers report.

"At least 2,000 fatal crashes per year that would not otherwise occur are attributed to increased licensing of 16-to-17-year-olds because of driver education."

The study looked at driver education experience in 27 states over the last several years. Allowances were made, the institute says, for differences between states that might affect their auto crash rates — such as the proportion of miles driven on rural roads and annual rainfall patterns.

The study found that 80 percent of the 16-to-17-year-olds who took driver education in school obtain licenses they otherwise would not have acquired until they were at least 18 or 19 years old.

"If the age of licensing were raised to 18, the adverse effects of driver education would be removed," the researchers claim. "However, driver education would not be of any demonstrated benefit in reducing crash involvement. If driver education is continued without raising the age of licensing to age 18, any possible benefits obtained from having younger teen-agers learn to drive will continue to be gained at a large cost in human life."

The institute researchers say their findings are consistent with those of a recent similar study in England.

There, a survey of driver education found no difference in crashes per miles driven between groups with various combinations of classroom, simulator and off-road training and those who had no driver education at all.

"However, the total crash involvement per person was higher among those who had 30 classroom hours and five hours of on-road training," says Robertson and Zador.

"That apparently is because they are often obtained drivers' licenses and drove as a result of having been in the driver education course."

Based on the results of driver education in this country, they said, motorcyclist training "would likely worsen the present situation substantially." Robertson and Zador point out that motorcycles and mopeds (motorized bicycles) have far higher death rates than automobiles.

The institute study concedes that everybody should learn to drive before venturing out on the highway in an automobile. And it adds that "the lack of effect of presently used driver education programs should not deter the search for means of improving the skills, knowledge and attitude of drivers."

"However, programs aimed at such improvement should be demonstrated to be effective in scientifically, well-designed experiments before they are adopted for widespread use."

As a final indictment of driver education, the study concludes that "programs which increase confidence that risk has been reduced, when in fact it has not, are far worse than no programs at all. Such is the case with driver education."

The report is likely to stir up considerable controversy. Most states and communities that offer public school driver education claim it not only has given young drivers better skills than their natural instincts provide, but has made most of them more conscious of how to avoid accidents.

Behind the Safety and Health Act 'reform'

By GRACE MARIE ARNETT

WASHINGTON — Small business people all over the country may have breathed a sigh of relief when the Labor Department proudly announced it plans to eliminate 1,100 "nit-picking and picayune" job safety rules.

But a careful examination of those 1,100 rules — and a look at the thousands and thousands that remain on the books — show business people need not hold their breath waiting for relief.

In fact, few regulations have been eliminated.

Most of the 1,100 were simply cut from the books of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) because they were obsolete or duplicated regulations already being enforced by some other agency. Net benefit for the business person: zero.

Example: Dr. Eula Bingham, assistant secretary of labor, said OSHA is revoking all of the rules dealing with cooperage, baking equipment and laundry machinery and equipment.

But not for a minute does the government intend to let those industries go unwatched. It just decided specific regulations for those particular businesses were redundant and could just as easily be enforced through general industry standards.

"This whole announcement is really a public relations ploy," one OSHA official confided.

"Very few of the rules we eliminated had any real impact. We just got rid of the ones that were already being handled by other agencies, were obsolete or simply concerned comfort and not safety."

Example: The temperature on blow driers in washrooms no longer needs to be 90 degrees. An employer can get away with an 85 degree reading without being cited.

"President Ford started a task force to review and rewrite all of the OSHA regulations," the official said. "But when the new people (the Carter administration) came in, they wanted something right away.

"So we dropped the rewrite and set out on a crash course to just eliminate some of the minor rules from the books," he said.

"With the rewrite, we probably would have eliminated 60 percent of the regulations and what was left would have been simpler and more workable.

"But Bingham and Labor Secretary Ray Marshall instead opted to have staffers just go through hundreds of pages of regulations and cross out rules that seemed most unnecessary.

"This way, we'll only get rid of about 30 percent of the regulations and we still have most of the incomprehensible language," the OSHA official said.

An example of one of the hundreds of regulations the OSHA people left untouched concerns storage containers for liquefied natural gas and states:

"The fixed liquid-level gauging device may be so constructed that the outward flow of container content exceeds that passed by a No. 54 drill-size opening, but in no case shall the flow exceed that passed by a No. 31 drill-size opening."

"No employer shall change the method used by him to determine calendar quarters except at the beginning of a calendar year."

Two of the regulations eliminated were on OSHA's list of the "top-10 most violated standards." One requires small metal signs indicating a floor's load capacity; another concerns hinges on stepladders. Token actions.

The OSHA official said the agency will continue to chop away at other sets of rules. The first cutting covered 590 pages of general industry regulations. Yet to come are construction, maritime and agriculture.

He estimates it will take three years for even this first round of cuts to actually be removed from the books.

"Meanwhile, the comprehensive rewrite is put on the back shelf while we try to convince the public with these public relations games that we are cutting through the bureaucratic red tape," he said.

Some OSHA officials do hold hope that the general directive by Marshall and Bingham for authorities to use "common sense" in enforcement will give business people relief from inordinately strict regulations.

If a sign is supposed to be 24 inches wide and is one-half inch too short, the agent can just "wink."

But the "commonsense wink" order is not expected to make enormous inroads in one of the most bureaucratic agencies ever created by the federal government.

Russians want role in American space shuttle

The Soviet Union wants to get in America's manned space shuttle act.

Russian scientists are pushing hard for an agreement which would allow Soviet spacecraft and cosmonauts to participate in U.S. shuttle missions in the 1980s. The United States, while discussing the possibilities of such a joint space mission, nevertheless, is playing coy.

The U.S. State Department and the National Security Council are calling the shots for this one more than the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, even though it would be that agency's program.

This was not the case during negotiations which led to the Apollo-Soyuz test project in mid-1975, when American astronauts and Russian spacemen rendezvoused and docked their craft in Earth orbit.

One of the hang-ups in the way of any major U.S.-Soviet space extravaganza involving the shuttle is the fact that the Russians still are three to five years behind the United States in many phases of space technology. The American astronauts picked up valid proof of this when they boarded the Soviet Soyuz craft during the docking of the U.S. and Russian spaceships.

Soviet space bigwigs recently played host to U.S. space scientists and engineers from NASA. The Russian delegates indicated they were eager to sign up for a possible joint shuttle-Salyut space station mission at the earliest possible date.

The U.S. delegates were polite but firm in explaining that they could make no commitments so quickly. First, their big boss, Dr. Robert A. Frosch, new NASA chief, would have to study such a proposal, they pointed out.

What they did not tell the Russians in so many words was that the State Department and the National Security Council have taken an uncommon interest in any discussions of another joint U.S.-Russian space venture, especially one involving the still-untested-in-space shuttle system.

A summary of the U.S.-Russian space discussions in Moscow has been handed to such officials as Frank Press, scientific adviser to President Carter, members of the National Security Council and mid-level State Department officers.

Mission of the Moscow meetings was to define possible scientific areas for studies involving joint use of the shuttle and the Russians' Salyut space station. The Russians came up with some specific proposals for scientific investigation in several areas. The Americans were more hesitant, less definitive.

Observed one NASA official who attended the Moscow discussions: "The Soviets definitely are pushing for a role in the shuttle program."

One reason for this likely is that some of the Soviet mission proposals could not even be tackled with Russian space hardware alone.

They would require reliance on the heavy-lift capabilities of the shuttle orbiter and the shuttle craft's ability to return large payloads to Earth from orbit.

But even the shuttle's versatility might not be enough for a successful joint U.S.-Russian venture if Soviet hardware and techniques are too far behind that of the United States, NASA delegates pointed out on their return home.

Most discussed during the four days of Moscow meetings were life sciences, astrophysics and high-energy astronomy as most likely scientific objectives where a joint mission might be valuable.

Despite U.S. reluctance to commit NASA to any well-defined joint space project involving the shuttle, a "summary of results" document defining what was decided at the meetings was signed by Noel W. Hinners, NASA associate administrator and U.S. delegation chairman, and Boris Petrov, chairman of the Intercosmos Council of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

The document also outlines the planned future meeting schedule for the U.S.-Soviet working groups.

Peace effort could bring tourism, business upsurge

(Near East Report)

President Sadat's joyous welcome to Jerusalem by the Israeli people has been equalled by the demonstrations of good will shown the Israeli delegation in Cairo.

The acts of friendship proffered between leaders and between the people of each country to the other's officials are also cropping out between Egyptian and Israeli "men on the street."

The results of these exchanges are always encouraging, if at times rather amusing.

Recognized while sightseeing in Cairo, chief Israeli negotiator Eliahu Ben Elissar and the other Israeli delegates were swamped by cheering, clapping crowds calling out their welcome and wishes for peace.

Half-depleted bags of popcorn and peanuts were offered as tokens of peace by Egyptian children.

Recognized again at the Sahara City Night Club, former Knesset member Uri Avineri was beckoned by a shimmying belly dancer to join her on stage. He and other Israelis did their utmost to master the dance, to the applause of the entire audience.

Their curiosity sparked by reports of the delegates' trips around Cairo, nearly 100 Israelis have put a deposit down for the chance of joining the first organized tours to Egypt originating from Ben-Gurion Airport.

The first of the nine-day trips is scheduled to depart on April 16.

Tourolam, the Israeli travel agency making arrangements, is confident the tours will be approved by Egyptian authorities.

The general manager of another Israeli tour group has ordered a hydrofoil to use on three-day tours to the pyramids and back by way of the Suez Canal.

It is not yet known whether the Orbit Insurance Agency will offer the special, two-week, all-inclusive policy it extended to those attending the Cairo conference.

Rotarians the world over will be envious to learn that two Israeli members attended the weekly Rotary Club lunch at the Nile Hilton and made the customary exchange of club flags.

It did not take long for Israeli-Egyptian business contacts to get under way, either.

No sooner had Sadat returned from Jerusalem than telex machines started clicking out Israeli business proposals — the first in 30 years.

Bank Leumi invited the National Bank of Egypt to start a correspondent banking relationship.

An Israeli publishing house offered the Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram rights to a book on Sadat's visit.

In other areas, the situation is similar.

Yeruchaim Meshel, secretary-general of the Histadrut, the Israeli Labor Federation, extended a letter of invitation to Salah Charib, president of the Egyptian Federation of Labor in Cairo.

Histadrut represents one and a half million Israeli workers, including over 150,000 Arabs.

The governor of Alexandria, Abdel Thawab Hodieb, publicly stated that the city's university would welcome Israeli exchange students.

One Egyptian-Israeli relationship much beyond the planning stage was started by an Israeli company, Delta Textile, and an Egyptian yarn merchant.

For some time, Delta has been buying yarn from the Egyptians, using it to manufacture underwear, and then selling the goods in Nazareth. This hidden business can now come out in the open.

Hopes are highest for mutual benefit of the two countries through cooperative agribusiness ventures in the Sinai and Negev.

Egypt would supply water from the Nile and manpower; Israel would provide its proven know-how in water management and farming.

Such joint projects would create an economic "buffer zone" in an area which previously was a site of hostility.

Once peace negotiations are solidified, business and social contacts between Egypt and Israel will surely surge ahead.

For one thing, both countries will have money presently committed to military defense to invest elsewhere.

Tourism will probably yield the quickest business dividends. And peace, of course, will make both countries look much better to investors.

Monday last day to apply for weatherizing grants

Monday is the deadline for persons wishing to apply for a share of $95,945 in grants the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission is offering low-income residents of the county to help weatherize their homes.

Applicants may qualify on a first-come, first-served basis for up to $400 in weatherization materials and labor to help increase their home's thermal efficiency and reduce heating bills. The need factor of each family also will be considered in approving the grants.

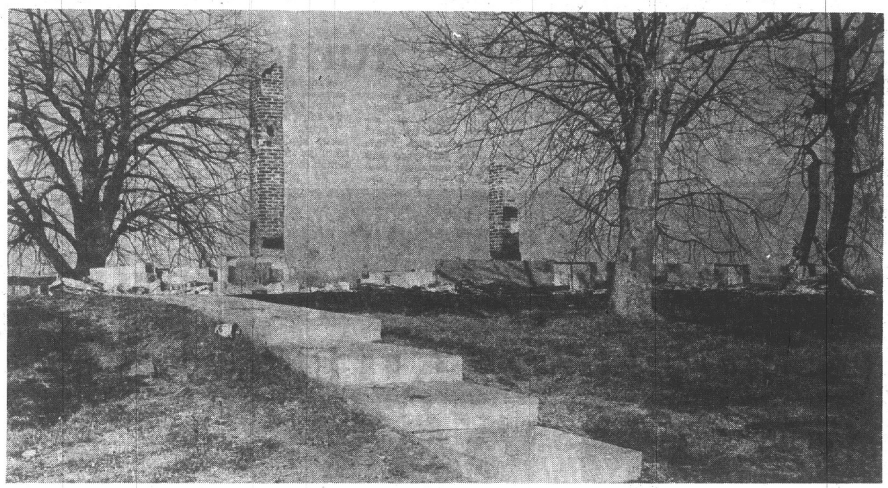

Offered are insulation, caulking, storm windows and doors and fully-supervised labor for the installation of the materials.

Income limitations for non-farm families start at $3,712.50 for a family of one; $4,912.50 for two; $6,102.50 for three; $7,312.50 for four; $8,512.50 for five; $9,712.50 for six, and $1,200 for each family member in addition to six.

A separate set of income limitations is set for farm families, starting at $3,187.50 for one person; $4,200 for two; $5,212.50 for three; $6,225 for four; $7,237.50 for five; $8,250 for six, and $1,012.50 for each family member in addition to six.

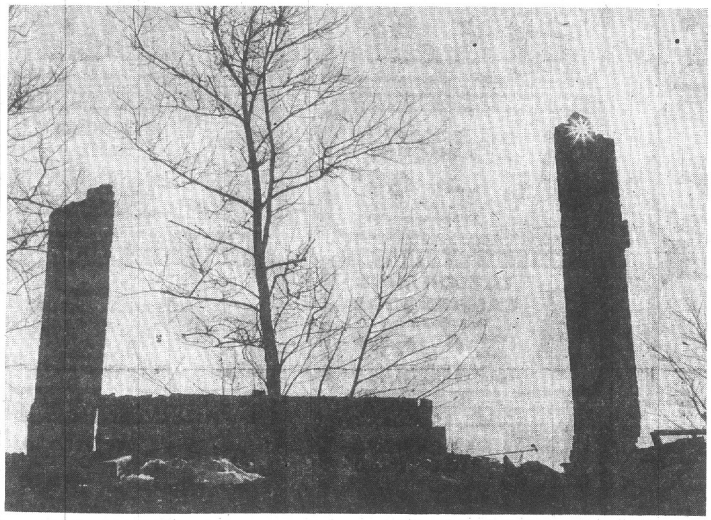

Quad-City residents may apply through Monday at any of three locations, but should make appointments in advance.

Appointments may be made by calling Mrs. Izola Robinson at 877-2412 for a visit to the Venice City Hall; Mrs. Norma Mendoza at 876-3223 for a visit to the YMCA; or Mark A. Davis at 797-0568 for a visit to the Nameoki Township Hall.

ONCE A PROUD HOME, a two-story farmhouse on the south end of Chouteau Island is now just a shell after last week's fire which burned uncontrolled, since the house was not in a fire district. Eight persons escaped unharmed, but the James A. Brinker family lost all its belongings and did not have fire insurance to cover the loss. The United Way, Red Cross and Grace Baptist Church have been aiding the family in locating housing, clothing and other necessities.

STARK SILHOUETTE is all that remains of the home of the James A. Brinker family on Chouteau Island following a fire there late last week. The home was one of the few remaining in the Quad-City area which was not in a fire district. The star at the top of the right chimney is the sun shining through the broken bricks.

GC Clean Air Board to study noise control

Proposed regulations to monitor and control noise pollution in Granite City will be discussed by the Granite City Air Pollution Control Board at its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the board meeting room at 2301 Adams St.

Jim Henry, the city's air pollution control engineer, said the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has submitted new regulations which local pollution authorities will be responsible for enforcing. The regulations stress the control of noise from vehicles, including motorcycles and loud auto mufflers.

He noted the EPA is willing to train police on the use of noise meters to determine noise violations, but it will be the responsibility of the city to purchase the meters.

The air board's consideration of the issue will be coordinated with Granite City Council discussions of ways to better enforce local ordinances prohibiting noisy vehicles.

Also to be discussed at the meeting is a report on status of an investigation the department is conducting into incidents where oxide dust settled onto autos and homes.

Dr. Donald F. Cairns, Granite City Steel vice-president in charge of environmental control programs, will be among the guests at the meeting.

Henry said an analysis of samples of the dust was conducted by a private laboratory for the EPA and the results have been received by his office, but said he does not feel the report should be made public until it is presented to the city's air board.

The board also will be asked to consider the federal grant application for the 1978-79 fiscal year prior to it being submitted to the EPA. A supplemental grant application for new air testing equipment also is to be studied.

Number of fires reduced in Venice

The Venice Fire Department responded to 53 fewer fires during 1977, compared to 1976, according to a report submitted at the Tuesday night Venice Council meeting by Gary Wallace, secretary of the Fire Department.

The biggest reduction was in grass and rubbish fires as there were 17 such fires in 1977, compared to 54 during 1976. The department answered a total of 114 calls last year, down from 167 during the previous year, a drop of 31 percent.

Showing 1977 figures first, followed by 1976, types of fire calls answered by the department were: dwellings 21-28, out-of-town 16-25, cars and trucks 18-21, false alarms 3-7, shed and garage 3-7.

Commercial fires increased in 1977 by four and rescue calls increased from seven to 11 in 1977.

Loss incurred by 1977 fires was, $39,600, compared to $31,500 in 1976, and loss to contents increased from $9,500 in 1976 to $20,500 last year.

Loss per capita in 1977 was $13.25, compared to the 1976 figure of $8.72.

The council authorized Chief of Police Ralph D. Brawley to attend the Jan. 21, 22 and 23 meeting of chiefs of police near Chicago.

A letter of appreciation from St. Mark's congregation thanking the city for demolishing the old convent building, was read and placed on file.

Science special program to be featured on 9

The life and career of scientist Louis S. B. Leakey will be showcased on a National Geographic special, "The Legacy of L.S.B. Leakey," at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 9; 9 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 10; 10:30 p.m., Friday, Jan. 13; and 9:30 a.m., 4 p.m. (captioned) and 7 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 14, Television on Channel Nine.

A jack-of-all-trades in the sciences, Leakey devoted his lifetime to unearthing human and animal fossil remains and shocking his scientific contemporaries with what they called "showmanship."

Narrated and hosted by E. G. Marshall, the story is told by films made throughout his long career and through three of Leakey's colleagues — Jane Goodall, Dian Fossey and Leakey's son, Richard.

A man said to have done more for the theory of evolution than anyone else, Louis S. B. Leakey had the reputation of a modern counterpart of the Renaissance's "universal man."

Another type of science — meteorology — is featured on The Weather Machine, 8:10 p.m. Monday, Jan. 9. The two-hour science special co-produced by the United States, Britain and world-wide broadcasting organizations looks at the mysterious operations of the "weather machine," the planet Earth.

Conditions which cause variations in climate with disastrous effects, such as typhoons and drouths, are examined.

Past variations in weather are analyzed, such as snow that fell 1,400 years ago and was imbedded beneath the Greenland ice; scientists use this data to predict future climate trends.

Is the world heading for another ice age? The program offers conclusions on this theory.

GC youth, 19, is beaten 3rd time

Kevin Krug, 19, of 2406 Illinois Ave., was injured when he was beaten by a group of young men in front of Prather Junior High School, 2300 W. 25th St., at 1:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Krug said he left a West Granite City tavern and was riding his motorcycle when he turned around in the school driveway and an auto stopped in front of his motorcycle, blocking his path.

Before he could back his motorcycle away, several young men got out of the car, knocked the cycle over, hit his face with fists and kicked him in the ribs.

He said it was the third time recently he had been beaten and does not know why. Krug was taken by Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated for a cut to his right lower lip and pain to his ribs. X-rays were taken and he was released.

Disability benefit rules are explained

(Office of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal)

Q. Who can get disability benefits?

A. Social Security disability benefits can be paid to disabled workers under 65 and their families if he or she has worked long enough under Social Security to have disability protection.

Most workers need Social Security work credits for at least five out of the 10 years before the onset of disability.

Workers 31 or older who become disabled may need more than five years of work.

For the worker who becomes disabled before 31, the requirement ranges downward with age, to as little as 1½ years.

Special rules apply to blind people.

A person who becomes disabled before 22 qualifies — if a parent (or, under certain conditions, a grandparent) who was covered under Social Security retires, becomes disabled or dies. These payments can continue as long as the disability lasts.

A person disabled before 22 needs no Social Security work credits to get benefits. A disabled widow 50 or over qualifies if her deceased husband had worked long enough under Social Security. This also applies to disabled widowers 50 or over — and to certain disabled surviving divorced wives 50 or over.

Disabled widows and widowers need not have worked under Social Security themselves. But they can be eligible only if the disability occurs before or within seven years after the spouse's death or, in the case of a widowed mother, before or within seven years after the end of her entitlement to mother's benefits.

Q. Are benefits paid only in the cases of permanent disability?

A. No. Benefits can be paid if the disability has lasted 12 months or is to result in death. Thus, people having nonpermanent impairments resulting from accident or illness as well as those with chronic conditions can receive benefits.

Q. How much does a disabled worker get?

A. Benefits for a disabled worker range from $114.30 to $600.40 a month, depending on the worker's average monthly earnings under Social Security.

If he or she has dependents, monthly family benefits can range from $171.50 to $1,050.70.

Contact your local Social Security office for advice and assistance on the disability program.

Remodeling completed at Trattler's store

Faith in the present and future of downtown Granite City has been expressed in word and deed by Dan N. Linder of Trattler's, 1328 Niedringhaus Ave.

Linder announced today the completion of a $20,000 remodeling project of the Trattler's downtown store, with both exterior and interior improvements.

The outside of the building has been done in lava stone, adding a "like new" appearance to the store, he said.

Inside, the fitting rooms have been remodeled and the store has been recarpeted and redecorated in an earthtone decor.

The business was started by the late Joseph Trattler in Granite City right after the turn of the century.

The third generation represented by Dan L. Linder now is operating the family business.

"A lot of people are saying downtown Granite City is dead, but I don't believe it or I would not have spent so much on our store here," Linder said.

"We appreciate what the city officials and other organizations are doing to try and help downtown Granite City, and their assistance is helpful and needed. But, when it comes down to the bottom line, downtown is what we, the merchants, make it. We have many fine stores here and I feel the future is bright for downtown Granite City."

"Trattler's intends to be in downtown Granite City for some time," Linder emphasized.

Linder also announced new store hours for the downtown store: Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 8:30 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

Registration for Belleville Area College classes to be taught in Granite City during the spring 1978 semester will begin Monday evening, Jan. 9, in Room 135 of Granite City High School South.

It will continue Jan. 10 and 11 between 3:30 and 8 p.m.

Students may register for general studies courses or for classes being taught in this community for college transfer credit.

Payment of tuition for general studies courses will be accepted during registration. However, students enrolling for college credit classes will be billed.

Assistant School Supt. Frank Kraus, coordinator of the BAC Granite City Extension Center, is reminding veterans that college credit classes and apprenticeship classes taught by BAC are eligible for Veterans Administration educational benefits.

$36 million operating budget for SIUE; tuition to rise

A state - appropriated operating budget of $36,743,500 and capital improvements totaling $1,652,000 for Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for the next fiscal year were included in budget recommendations announced Tuesday by the staff of the Illinois Board of Higher Education for higher education institutions and programs.

The fiscal year begins July 1, 1978.

James Furman, executive director of the IBHE staff, said he will ask the board to approve an operating budget for colleges and universities totaling $975.4 million, an increase of $93.8 million over current fiscal year appropriations of $881.5 million.

The staff also recommended capital improvements at colleges and universities totaling $126.1 million.

The IBHE will meet Jan. 10 at Rosemont to consider the budget recommendations.

SIUE, with a base operating budget of $32,934,700 in the current fiscal year, had requested $40,464,100 for next year. The local university's capital improvements request for next year totaled $32,156,000.

The capital improvements recommended for SIUE by the IBHE staff include $641,000 in planning funds for the second phase, through construction documents and construction supervision, for a permanent facility to house health education, physical education and recreation programs.

This project, estimated to cost $12,916,000, was previously funded in the amount of $190,000 for planning.

The IBHE staff also is recommending $1,500,000 of $3,104,000 requested by the Southwestern Illinois Public Television Corp. for development of an educational television broadcast facility, including a transmitter tower and building. The station is to utilize the broadcast studio facilities at SIUE.

Other capital improvements recommended for the local campus include: energy conservation—central utility control, $257,000; roof replacement, Library and Peck buildings, $168,000; minor remodeling for Occupational Safety and Health Act specifications, $241,000; Alton center renovation, $301,000; and planning for renovation of Wagner buildings, $44,000.

Funds recommended for new and expanded programs at SIUE include $110,000 for the School of Nursing, $15,000 for the bachelor of science in engineering, $30,000 for the master of science in environmental studies, $30,000 for the East St. Louis Center and $97,000 for the School of Dental Medicine.

SIUE President Kenneth Shaw voiced disappoint ment about the $4 million slash in proposed operating funds, saying it "reduces our ability to perform the services we feel are necessary."

He said he is pleased at the inclusion of planning funds for the gymnasium project. SIUE is the only state university in Illinois lacking such facilities.

Furman outlined the main components of the IBHE's operating budget recommendations as follows:

—An eight percent salary increase for all state university employees, and 10 percent for low-salaried, civil service workers.

—A five percent increase in funds available to colleges and universities for the purchase of services and commodities, largely to offset expected inflationary advances.

—An increase of $16.7 million to put the State Universities Retirement System on a more sound financial basis.

—Increases in funds available for energy costs ranging from 11.5 percent to 16 percent, depending on the type of fuel used by a college or university, such as natural gas, fuel oil, or coal.

—Increased funding for public community colleges of $7.2 million over current appropriations, or $16.3 million when special, nonrecurring funding for the current year is removed from the base appropriation.

—An additional $9.6 million for the Illinois State Scholarship Commission to fund monetary awards for more than 96,000 financially-needy students next year.

—An additional $6 million for new university programs next year, and special credit hour grants totaling $700,000 for program development and improvement at community colleges.

—Increased funding for private colleges and universities, including an additional $1 million in direct grants and an additional $2.3 million to students attending private colleges and universities with an ISSC award, raising the annual maximum award per student to $1,650. Also, the private sector will receive $13.5 million in grants for the support of the education of health professionals.

Furman said the recommended increase of $93.8 million for operations and grants would be derived from two sources: $87.8 million from the state General Revenue Fund (GRF), or tax receipts, and $6.4 million from the Universities Income Fund, which would result from a tuition increase at public universities.

Total GRF appropriations next year would be $859.6 million, while total appropriations from the Universities Income Fund would be $98.4 million.

The IBHE staff recommends that undergraduate tuition increase by $48 per year and graduate student tuition by $64 per year.

"The board's policy is that university tuition should equal one-third of instructional costs by fiscal 1980," Furman said. "This means that taxpayers will still pay the remaining two-thirds." Even with the recommended tuition increase, tuition next year would still fall short of the one-third mark.

Furman said financially-needy students receiving aid from the ISSC will not pay the tuition increase.

"To put these budget recommendations in perspective, it should be noted that higher education's share of state GRF revenues has declined from 23 percent to 15.8 percent over the last 11 years," Furman said, noting that this decline was stabilized during the current fiscal year.

Firewood—shortcut to economy on fuel

By ART SCHUMANN

If you're on a fuel economy kick — and who isn't, with the rapid rise in costs? — there may be an easy answer to your problem.

It's called wood, something that can be used as an effective supplement to a home's existing heating system. But, he cautioned that there's more to burning wood than putting it into the stove or fireplace and setting a match to it.

Of major importance is the splitting and aging of the wood before its use.

Before dropping a tree, you have to determine which way you want the tree to fall and which way the lean, wind and other trees will let you cut it.

First, clear any brush around the tree that might interfere with your work. Then pick an escape route when the tree begins to fall.

Next, make an undercut on the side toward where you want the tree to fall.

Undercut about one-third the diameter of the tree, making the bottom (horizontal) cut first and the downward cut second. Then make the backcut about one to two inches above the horizontal cut. This prevents the tree from sliding back off the stump as it falls.

The next step is to cut the limbs close to the trunk and then begin bucking (cutting into lengths) pieces as small as you want to haul. Buck the wood about four inches shorter than the length of your firebox and buck only the sound part — rotten wood dries slowly and gives less heat. Watch for metal (nails, wire) in the wood.

When bucking a long piece on the ground, make all cuts almost through or until they begin to bind. Then roll the piece and finish the cuts. On large diameter logs, saw about a fourth of the way through on the "pinching" side, then finish the cut from the "opening" side. Next cut square ends so pieces will stand up for splitting.

For most wood-burning heaters, furnaces and fireplaces, wood more than six to 10 inches in diameter should be split.

Split pieces dry faster, have more edges to heat and are easier to handle.

The best tools for splitting wood are a maul and a wedge, available at almost any hardware store. Ax-split wood includes oak, ash and beech. Harder to split wood includes hickory, elm and ironwood. The pieces should be stood on end and split toward the center.

The first operation is to strike the end of the log in its center with the bit side of the maul. Don't overswing — let the maul do the work. For larger diameter logs and hardwoods, place the log on end and strike it with a wood-chopper's maul to make an indentation.

Next, place the wedge in the notch; grip the maul handle near the head and strike the wedge with the hammer end to "set" it in the log. Once set, regrip the handle and drive the wedge into the log until it splits. Water in wood makes it heavier, reduces heat when burned and causes creosote to form in the smoke pipe or chimney.

Stack wood off the ground, if possible, so air can circulate under as well as around the wood. Or stack it on a drier surface such as sand or gravel. For best drying, stack under a roof.

Actually, wood should dry under cover for a year. There is a certain danger to burning wood if creosote is allowed to form.

Large, smoldering fires form creosote inside chimneys and pipes. If a fire is not hot enough, volatile oils and tars condense along the sides and at the top. With the heavy buildup at a high temperature this creosote then can ignite.

Don't start fires with volatile liquids or newspapers. These produce the danger of high temperature and sudden flareups of creosote. To reduce creosote trouble, burn dry wood in a hot, small fire and refuel often with smaller amounts of wood.

Short or insulated pipes also keep creosote from forming. Never burn wet or green wood. Burning off the excess water loses heat and builds creosote. Always keep a multi-purpose fire extinguisher (ABC type) to discharge up the chimney or stove pipe.

Modern homes often contain more combustible materials than older homes with plaster walls. Three feet from side walls and ceiling is the rule for placement of the heating unit unless heat shields cover the areas. Protect the floor by placing a non-combustible stove plate underneath the unit. These are available at most hardware stores.

Rainfall in the Quad-City area during 1977 was more than double that of the previous year with a total of 41.34 inches precipitation recorded at the Chain of Rocks locks where weather records are maintained for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The total fall during the year just ended was 23.29 inches more than the relatively dry year of 1976 when total precipitation amounted to only 18.05 inches.

Rainfall during December, the last month of the year, totaled 3.07 inches, including a 3.5-inch snowfall, or .35 of an inch precipitation, on Dec. 6.

Rain on other days of the month included .78 of an inch on Dec. 1 and .66 of an inch on Dec. 5. On Dec. 9, rain gauges at the locks recorded .35 of an inch, and .83 of an inch on Dec. 14.

Heaviest rainfall in any one month of the year occurred in March when 6.72 inches of rain were recorded, or 4.38 inches above normal of 2.34 inches for that month.

Precipitation also exceeded six inches in June when a total rainfall of 6.66 inches was recorded. Normal fall for June is 4.27 inches.

Lightest fall of the year was recorded in April with .70 of an inch compared to a normal of 3.71 inches, while only 1.02 inches of rain fell during January, compared to a normal of 1.98 inches for that month.

Precipitation in February was 2.04 inches, identical to the 2.04-inch normal for that month. Other rainfall measurements during 1977 were: May 4.40 (normal 3.73); July 3.37 (3.20); August 3.81 (3.02); September 2.80 (2.86); October 3.32 (2.86); November 3.43 (2.57), and December 3.07 (1.97).

In addition to being the wettest year in recent history, 1977 also was marked by record low temperatures at the beginning of the year. January brought 23.9 inches of snow, making it the snowiest January since weather records were begun in the region in 1837. The former record was 14.3 inches of snow in January 1904.

Snow covered the ground continuously during January 1977, but a fall of 3.5 inches in the Quad-City area came 11 months later on Dec. 5 and 6. Some parts of the region reported as much as 11 inches of snow during December, as the year drew near an end.

January 1977 also was the coldest month of the year with an average temperature of 16.2 degrees below normal, according to the U.S. Weather Service.

The coldest days of the year were Jan. 16 and Dec. 10 and the warmest days were July 6 and 7 with 98 degrees.

January 16 was the coldest day of the year with an official reading of 14 degrees below zero. Temperatures for the year averaged 55.7 degrees, or .5 degrees below normal.

The coldest day of December was zero on Dec. 10, or 28 degrees below normal.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Concentrate on goal planning and serious personal efforts. Take care of projects left unfinished due to the holiday activities. Be willing to work hard for later successes. Be sincere with loved one.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Curb any feelings of resentment toward others and use willpower to accomplish your goals. Success and admiration could be forthcoming in career matters. A stimulating new friend could come into your life now.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Work and study matters go so well you could display superior attitudes — don't! Pay close attention to diet and guard against weight gain. Stay actively involved and appreciate your special advantages.

CANCER: (June 22 to July 21 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Be low-key in dealing with mate or partners — demanding too much creates problems. Resist tendency to give unwanted advice. Not the time to ask for favors because others may not be able to keep the promises they make.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Work at your practical hobbies. Communications are accented and you should guard against taking other's jokes too seriously. Evaluate long-term goals and decide to take more training or further study if necessary.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Your communications with another may be confusing due to their evasiveness or misrepresentation. Relax a bit to clear the cobwebs and daydreaminess. Handle children with calmness and understanding.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — If estranged from a family member, reconciliation is possible now. Beautify, redecorate your home environment. Popularity is high and a new friendship could develop into something deeper if you're discreet.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Take time out to relax and release an issue that belongs to the past. Take care of all correspondence, both social and business. Don't procrastinate. If asked for advice, be direct and to the point.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — A restless period when simultaneous activities and moods could make you want to chuck it all and be totally free. Curb your tendency toward criticism, impatience and pessimism. It will pass.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Cultivate those at the top by submitting your creativity realistic ideas. Concentrate on career, but don't neglect a loved one. You could be in a new leadership position and be heading straight to the top.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Delay signing contracts or important papers if possible. Appearances can be deceiving so get good legal advice. Be conservative and cautious in all matters, including driving and business affairs. Don't loan or borrow money.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Resist feeling disappointed if a fond wish does not materialize — your expectations could have been unrealistic from the start. Accept an ambitious post in your career, letting superiors know you're ready, willing and able.

MR. AND MRS. ROLAND KOENEMAN. They were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church. The bride is the former Miss Stephanie Marie Gerboc, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M Gerboc, 2429 Angela Drive.

Koeneman-Gerboc nuptials at St. Elizabeth Church

Miss Stephanie Marie Gerboc and Roland Edward Koeneman were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony on Nov. 19, at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

Father Kenneth Becker performed the double ring service at 2 o'clock. A program of wedding music was provided by Myra Gaines.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Gerboc, 2429 Angela Drive. Parents of the groom are Mrs. Virginia R. Koeneman, 2864 Ralph St., and the late William E. Koeneman.

Jodi Veloff, a niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a rust color frock created with short sleeves and full skirt and she carried a basket of peach rose petals.

Guests were received by the newly married couple at a reception held at the Croatian Home in Madison. The rehearsal dinner was held at Roustio's Restaurant in Collinsville.

Mrs. Koeneman, mother of the groom, was attired in a long mint green sleeveless gown worn with a long sleeved Venise lace jacket.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of St. Teresa Academy and is currently employed as a claims adjuster for Provident Life & Accident Insurance Co., St. Louis.

A 1967 graduate of Granite City High School, the groom is maintenance supervisor at St. John's Cemetery.

They are residing in St. Louis.

Party fetes former residents

Mr. and Mrs. Russell West of Almagardo, N.M., former residents, were guests of honor at a New Year Eve's party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stitch in their home, 2254 Benton St.

The honorees resided in Granite City for many years. Mrs. West served as church organist and choir director for local churches.

During the evening Mrs. West presided at the organ as the group sang songs relative to the holiday season and many of the big band favorites.

A buffet luncheon was served to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Paddock, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Compton, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Frohardt, Mr. and Mrs. Milford Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Youngs, Mr and Mrs. Homer Huber, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Potillo, Mrs. Ruby Corbitt, Mrs. Kathryn Richardson, Mrs. Leona Cartwright, Otheo Hensley and Mr. and Mrs. John Hutton of Portage Des Sioux, Mo.

MARRIED. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wesley Richardson who exchanged vows at Calvary Baptist Church. Formerly Miss Vicki Lee Newgent, the bride is a daughter of Mrs. Mary Mucho, 2904 Wayne Ave.

(Henry Studios)

Vicki Lee Newgent weds Daniel W. Richardson

Calvary Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding on Nov. 26 of Miss Vicki Lee Newgent and Daniel Wesley Richardson.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Mucho, 2904 Wayne Ave. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Richardson Sr., 4038 Melrose Ave.

Escorted to the altar by her step-father, John J. Mucho Sr., the former Miss Newgent chose a full length ivory Qiana gown with a Queen Anne neckline and long fitted sleeves. The bodice was enhanced with delicate Venise lace in a rose petal motif repeated at the waistline, accenting the skirt and chapel length train.

Her fingertip veil was edged in Venise lace and secured with a Juliet cap. She carried a colonial bouquet of silk flowers, bronze mums and ivory roses, intermingled with baby's breath.

Sharon Thomas, was honor attendant and the bridesmaids were Judy Richardson, sister-in-law of the groom, Robin Dellamano and Sherri Walker.

Daniel Schneider attended the groom as best man. Robert E. Richardson Jr., brother of the groom, John Mucho Jr., and Gregory Wyatt, were the groomsmen.

Serving as ushers were Garry Mainer and Drew Gitchoff.

Pamela Fontana was flower girl and carried a miniature bouquet similar to the bridesmaids. Ernie Walker was the ringbearer.

Candlelighters were Sandy Smith and Lori Morris.

Kim Fontana attended the rice packets.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Granite City High School South and also of Belleville Area College. She is a registered Medical Laboratory Technician and is employed at Clinical and Biochemical Procedures in St. Louis.

The groom is also a 1974 graduate of Granite City High School North and is an owner of Granite City Boat and Motor Co.

Record GI insurance dividends during 1978

A record $445.6 million in dividends will be paid during 1978 to 4.1 million veterans holding GI life insurance policies, the Veterans Administration said today.

VA Administrator Max Cleland said the 1978 insurance dividends represent a $42.2 million increase over those paid in 1977.

Payments will be made throughout the year on the anniversary dates of individual policies kept in force from World War I, World War II and the Korean War.

There is no need for policyholders to contact the VA regarding the dividends. The payments will be made automatically, it was emphasized.

Cleland said 3,465,000 veterans holding current World War II GI insurance policies will receive dividends totaling $405,600,000 — an average payment of $117. The average 1977 dividend on these policies was $104.

A total of $24 million in dividends will go to 106,900 World War I policyholders — an average of $224 each up from $202 in 1977.

The 550,000 Korean veterans who kept their GI insurance policies in force will receive dividends totaling $16 million — an average payment of $29, up from $22 in 1977.

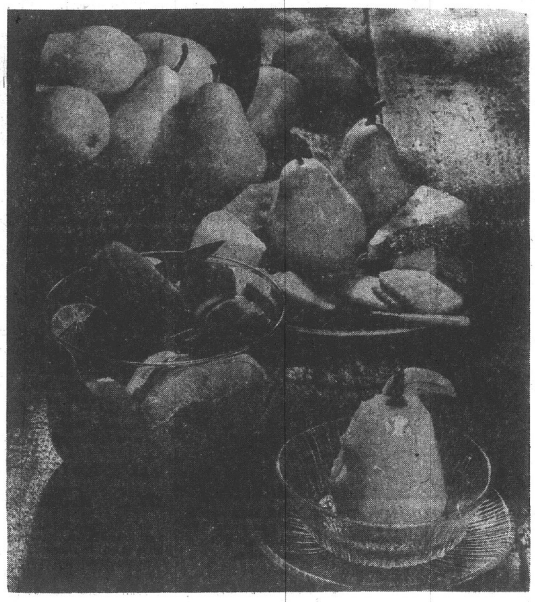

Cleland said the amount of the dividend will vary with each veteran according to the type of policy, amount of insurance, age at issue or renewal and the time the policy has been in force.

Dividends on VA insurance policies represent a return of funds not needed to pay the cost of the insurance.

It was also noted that dividends on most VA insurance programs have increased in recent years because the funds have been earning higher interest.

The higher interest rates have been of greatest benefit to those veterans who have converted their insurance plans to permanent type policies, rather than continuing to hold the original term policies, Cleland explained.

PEARFECTION --- Fresh pears make a colorful dish cooked into desserts such as the orange-glazed royal pears or the brilliant red sunset pears. They are also delicious served simply fresh and juicy to be eaten out of hand, or served with cheese.

Pick pears for elegant desserts

By MARJORIE RICE

Naturally sweet, pears are a natural for dessert. A classic is fresh pears and cheese. But with these recipes, you can go a few steps further for some truly elegant desserts.

Sunset pears are simmered in a rosy cranberry-apple liquid. Eat them as is, or spoon them over dry cereal, topped with yogurt, sour cream or even a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

SUNSET PEARS

1½ cups cranberry-apple drink
½ cup sugar
2 tbsps. lemon juice
Dash salt
4 fresh pears, pared thinly, halved and cored
4 thin lemon slices
4 thin lime slices
2 small bay leaves

Combine cranberry-apple drink, sugar, lemon juice and salt in a large skillet. Simmer while preparing pears. Place pear halves cut-side down in the simmering liquid; cover skillet and cook 3 or 4 minutes.

Turn pears carefully. Add lemon and lime slices and bay leaves. Cook 3 or 4 minutes longer, or until pears are barely tender. Cool in the syrup, basting occasionally. Makes four servings. Note: For deeper color, add a drop or two of red food coloring to the syrup.

Royal pears are a truly elegant dish, taking a little time but worth every bit of the effort. Be sure to buy pears with their stems still on, then peel and core them with care. Use a small end of a melon ball cutter, and removes the core from the bottom, so you have the appearance of a plump and perfect pear.

ROYAL PEARS

Two-thirds cup orange juice
1 tsp. finely shredded orange peel
One-third cup water
1 stick cinnamon
Dash salt
4 large, fresh pears
3 tbsps. almond paste
3 tbsps. Cointreau liqueur
Almond paste leaves (optional)

Combine juice, peel, water, cinnamon and salt in a three-quart saucepan. Cook, stirring, until sugar dissolves. Cover and let simmer while preparing pears.

Peel pears, leaving stems on. Remove cores from bottom. Place pears in simmering syrup and cook, covered, about five minutes. Turn carefully, cover again and cook about five minutes.

Uncover and cook just until pears are tender, turning and basting frequently. Remove pears with slotted spoon and chill. Boil remaining syrup rapidly until reduced to one-third cup, watching carefully that it does not scorch.

Cool slightly and mix two teaspoons of the syrup with the almond paste. Stuff the mixture carefully into the core cavities of the pears. Blend liqueur into remaining syrup. At serving time, place pears in individual serving dishes and spoon syrup over them. Decorate with almond paste leaves, if desired. Makes four servings.

Almond Paste Leaves. Cut thin slices of almond paste and trim to leaf shapes. Dilute two or three drops green food coloring with a tablespoon cold water and brush over leaves to tint them lightly. Secure to pears with a small pick when served.

GOLDEN PEAR CHEESECAKE

1 16 oz. can pear halves
1 6 oz. package zwieback
½ cup soft butter
⅛ tsp. nutmeg
¾ cup sugar, divided
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3 eggs, separated
2 8-oz. packages cream cheese, softened
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. vanilla
Grated peel of 1 lemon
1 cup heavy cream, lightly whipped
¾ cup apricot preserves

Drain pears, reserving syrup, and cut into quarters. Chill. Crush zwieback into fine crumbs and blend with butter, nutmeg and ¼ cup sugar. Press onto bottom and two inches up sides of nine-inch springform pan.

Bake at 400 degrees 10 minutes. Cool. Soften gelatin in ½ cup reserved pear syrup. Measure remaining pear syrup. Add water to make ½ cup. In saucepan blend egg yolks, remaining sugar and pear syrup-water mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened, about 10 minutes.

Add lemon juice, vanilla and lemon peel. Beat until well blended. Fold in whipped cream, then beat egg whites until stiff peaks form and fold into gelatin mixture.

Pour into cooled crust and chill until set. Remove sides from springform pan and arrange reserved pear quarters on top of cake. Heat and strain apricot preserves. Cool to lukewarm. Drizzle over pears on top of cheesecake. Chill well. Serves eight to 10 persons.

Permit issued for Taco Bell

The Granite City building and inspection office has issued a $78,000 permit for construction of a new Taco Bell Restaurant at 2021 Johnson Road, and an $18,000 permit for the Granite City Park District to erect a new concession stand in Wilson Park, according to December's monthly permit report, which was issued today.

Also among the 13 permits issued during the month was a $10,000 permit for Trattlers Clothing Store to remodel at Niedringhaus Avenue and 20th Street, a $3,300 permit for Dillon Oil Co. to convert to a self-service facility at 1817 Madison Ave., and a $3,000 permit for remodeling of George Lindsay's Restaurant, 3301 Nameoki Road.

Other permits were for residential remodeling and repairs, garage, and carports and smaller commercial improvements.

Not all aerosols are dangerous

Several safe alternatives to fluorocarbon aerosol propellants are available to fill the gap created by the mandatory phaseout of fluorocarbons, a consumer advocate points out.

In fact, many aerosols already use the safer propellants and have for years, said Lexie Brockway, who represents Bristol-Myers.

"The problem is that not all aerosols are dangerous, and I think the consumer is very confused," she said.

"There are many aerosols on the market that have been in use for 30 to 40 years and are safe."

"These aerosols, instead of fluorocarbons, use hydrocarbons, nitrous oxide or carbon dioxide," she said.

All are compressed gases that force various products — hair sprays, deodorants, bathroom cleaners — out of spray cans.

But fluorocarbons are now suspected of causing a depletion in the Earth's ozone layer, which shields the Earth from the ultraviolet radiation of the sun.

The increase in this radiation resulting from the fluorocarbon-caused depletion is blamed by many authorities for the higher incidence of skin cancer in the last 10 years. Scientists also feel it is having an adverse effect on all plant, marine and animal life.

The new federal requirement is that all spray cans containing fluorocarbons be so labeled and carry a warning.

Consumers should be aware of the safe alternatives, Brockway said.

Hydrocarbons already are in use for such products as hair sprays, air fresheners, window cleaners and various industrial sprays, Brockway said.

The makers of most personal care products originally chose fluorocarbons over hydrocarbons because fluorocarbons were simpler to use, she said. But now, faced with a ban on fluorocarbon propellants by 1979, manufacturers are looking again at ways to use hydrocarbons in their aerosol products.

The warning on the label that fluorocarbon sprays "may harm the public health and environment by reducing ozone in the upper atmosphere" is the first part of an 18-month phaseout plan.

The plan was announced last summer by three federal agencies, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Food and Drug Administration and the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Under the plan, manufacturers must stop making fluorocarbon sprays for the aerosol market as of Oct. 15, 1978. All companies now using fluorocarbon sprays must stop using them in their products by Dec. 15, 1978. No aerosol cans containing fluorocarbon propellants can be sold after April 15, 1979.

Brockway said hydrocarbons are environmentally safe because they are unstable chemical compounds and dissolve immediately in the atmosphere. However, fluorocarbons are very stable compounds which rise into the stratosphere, where they can deplete the Earth's ozone layer.

The ozone layer, which is five to 30 miles above the Earth's surface, provides protection from the ultraviolet rays of the sun, Brockway pointed out.

Do 'strings' tie up your life?

By REV. W. LEE TRUMAN

I learned a first-class lesson about myself from watching a line of elephants.

Some of these bull elephants were big, massive brutes, but they were held in place by a chain which looked no stronger than the tensile strength of a piece of wire. It seemed incredible that so much raw animal power could be contained by something so small.

Farther down the line were the baby elephants. Shackled around their legs were huge log chains.

I asked the animal trainer about this, implying that I thought he had things somewhat backwards. He was patient with me and my questions and informed me that the baby elephants fight the chains for several weeks, then resign themselves to the chain. At this point they are conditioned, and can be tethered from then on with a kite string.

If elephants can be conditioned for the rest of their lives, I wonder how many ways we are conditioned?

A young man, fresh out of school, has been told by his mother from youth up never to speak to strangers, not to speak unless spoken to and never to go where he is not wanted. He applies for a job and the boss tells him to get out there, buttonhole a stranger, go where he is not wanted, and make the sale. That calls for a rather dramatic turnabout from his basic life conditioning. It is an exceptional young man who can do this.

Children can be conditioned so easily that it is frightening. I told my youngest that he always wakes up smiling. Of course he did not! But after six months of telling him that he did, he comes awake with the alarm clock so cheerful that sometimes it is annoying.

Sometimes we have to stop and ask ourselves what would our life be without goals.

We need goals to give direction to our lives. Yet more people plan their two weeks' vacation better than they plan their lives. They can tell you where they are going to be each night on their vacation, but ask them where they are going to be five years from now and they cannot give you the foggiest.

A man needs confidence in what he does. This he draws from his life plan. Because he knows where he is going, he knows what is excess baggage and what is not. Add to this determination and follow-through, and you have the successful formula for living life.

At Innsbruck, Switzerland, the United States had a skelton crew of figure skaters representing our country. There had been a tragic air crash where most of the U.S. Olympic skating team had been killed.

A 14-year-old girl finished far back in the pack. She was not good enough and she knew it. As she was interviewed following the Olympics, she said with tears that four years from that time she would be back and she would win a gold medal. Big words for a young teen-ager.

The rest of the story is that she practiced for six hours a day for those four years, and Peggy Fleming brought home the only gold medal won for the United States that year in the Winter Olympics. Faith, goals, planning, confidence and determination sum it up.

When that rough blow from life, that unexpected and undeserved kick in the head comes your way, get up and get going. Everyone of us has gone down but the difference is who gets up, dusts himself off and sets his eyes on that goal again.

If you think that this is a pep talk, you are right. I needed it this morning, so I did some reviewing and I am sharing it with anyone else who is needing a pep talk.

ANNUAL REGISTRATION PUBLICATION

Article 9.02 of the Rules and Regulations to Govern the Administration and Operation of Special Education requires that each local school district is responsible for conducting an annual registration of all three year old exceptional children and other exceptional children not previously registered.

Anyone having, or knowing of an exceptional (handicapped) child ages three to twenty-one, in Granite City District No. 9, Madison District No. 12, or Venice District No. 3, not enrolled in a public school program, should inform or register the child with their neighborhood school, or the Region I Special Education District, 2060 Delmar Avenue, Granite City, Illinois. Eligibility proof is up to claimant

Q. When I filed my claim for widow's benefits I was told I had to have proof of my age and my marriage certificate.

I thought the Social Security Office should get those papers since I don't have them. — Anna.

A. Responsibility for submitting proofs required for the processing of a claim lies with the person filing the claim.

If you do not have copies of your birth certificate or marriage certificate, your local Social Security Office can tell you where to write to get them.

Q. I applied for SSI 18 months ago and have been receiving checks regularly. However, I get so many requests from the Social Security Office to see if I'm still eligible that I just want to drop it.

I'm only getting a small SSI check. How do I go about having it stopped? — K. M.

A. You must submit a written request for termination of your SSI benefits. The statement must indicate an understanding that such termination may extend to other benefits resulting from SSI eligibility.

Termination will be effective with the month following the month the request is filed unless you specify some other month.

Q. I was married over 20 years and then divorced and I receive benefits from my former husband's account.

His second wife, married to him only three years before he died also receives benefits. How is this possible? — N. C.

A. The 20-year requirement only applies where the marriage terminated by divorce.

Where marriage ended by death, benefits are payable if they married nine months prior to death. If death was accidental or in line of duty while in service, the nine months requirement may be waived.

Q. Social Security began in 1937. How come one-third of those who receive benefits are over 72 and more than 8,000 are over 100?

Where does the money come from to pay those people who have had no employee or employer contributions to the Social Security system? — T. S.

A. Your assumption that there were no employee or employer contributions is incorrect.

In 1937 some of those who are over 100 now would have been in their early 60s, working and contributing to Social Security. Only one and a half years of work was necessary to qualify them for monthly benefits.

Some of those may be the surviving spouses of workers employed in 1937 and later years.

Social Security benefits are paid only on the basis of work performed in covered employment. Certainly those who are between 72 and 100 now would have had ample opportunity to work and pay into Social Security for as long as the law requires.

Does hope help to fight cancer?

By MARION WELLS

Can hope, the will to get well and a purpose for living help in a person's fight against cancer?

"Yes," answers Robert J. McKenna, M.D., director for regional activities at the LAC-USC Comprehensive Cancer Center. "Of course, this doesn't guarantee a cure. Nor should appropriate medical measures be neglected.

"But in my experience, someone with a positive attitude who fights hard and wants to get well does better than the individual who 'has a hopeless attitude,'" he said. "Response to various treatments is apt to be better. Side effects tend to be less frequent and less severe. The person is apt to enjoy a better quality of life, whether or not there's a cure."

Hope should be encouraged from the time a cancer diagnosis is suspected, he urges.

"I think many people influence this besides the physician. The attitude of others on the health care team and support from family and friends are very important.

"So is a chance to talk with someone who's gone through a similar situation. Let's say a woman is losing a breast because of cancer. The best of doctors can't offer the personal insights that another woman who's come through it can. The laryngectomy who loses his voice box is encouraged to know, 'This other person has been through it and learned to talk again. So maybe I can, too.' That gives patients goals."

McKenna also encourages patients to plan for next month and next year. We all need goals and hopes and dreams, he believes.

"Too many people think, 'Now that I have cancer, I can't do this thing I'd like to do.' But something could come up even if you don't have cancer. You could plan a trip to Europe and then run short of money. Or a friend might need your help."

Living each day is a good philosophy for everyone, he adds. So many of us put off until retirement something we've always dreamed of doing. Of course, that's not to imply, "Live today, for tomorrow you'll probably die."

There's always the chance there's something else that might help a cancer patient, McKenna reminds us. Cancer is hundreds of different diseases, and even the same cancer may behave a little differently in each individual.

"I think it's important to pick a doctor in whom you have confidence," he said. "But patient or doctor shouldn't hesitate at any point to get a second medical opinion.

"Family doctors can play a special part in emotional support," McKenna notes. "Various specialists may see a patient, but the family doctor has continuing contact. The personal touch is so important."

Emotional support isn't something we can sit down and measure, says McKenna. "We don't have all the answers. But we do know it can do a lot of good."

Candidate Martin-Trigona's past being cited in campaign

By ROBERT ESTILL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau

Anthony R. Martin-Trigona's penchant for accusing judges and attorneys of being crazy or corrupt — or both — resulted in 1973 in his being denied admission to practice law in Illinois.

Now, that denial — and the circumstances triggering it — have surfaced again in Martin-Trigona's campaign against Alex R. Seith for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Those proceedings raised as many questions about Martin-Trigona's own judgment as they did about the judges and attorneys he was castigating, political opponents believe.

After an Attorneys' Review Committee refused to certify that Martin-Trigona had the "requisite good moral character and fitness" to practice law, he took his case to the Illinois Supreme Court.

That record overwhelmingly establishes that he lacks the qualities of responsibility, candor, fairness, self-restraint, objectivity and respect for the judicial system which are necessary adjuncts to the orderly administration of justice."

At his committee hearings, Selective Service records were introduced showing he was deemed unfit for military service because he suffered from a "moderately severe character defect, manifested by well-documented ideation with a paranoid flavor and a grandoise character."

Martin-Trigona balked at the committee's recommendation that he submit to a psychiatric examination.

Instead, he presented an affidavit from his personal psychologist that any emotional problems he had were due to factors that had been reconciled.

The court said it did not need to consider the "myriad issues" of his stability; it found enough wrong in his conduct to justify denying admission to practice, it concluded.

Among the things the court cited were:

—His accusations that the court was corrupt and already had decided his case.

—His attempt to vacate a finding against him on the grounds the judge had such a "pathological antipathy" toward him that she was "temporarily mentally insane" (the case involved a parking violation).

—His charge that another judge was insane, had solicited a bribe from him, Martin-Trigona, and had conspired to deprive him of property.

—His letter to an attorney, suffering from what the court termed a mild case of cerebral palsy, in which Martin-Trigona referred to the attorney as a "palsied lunatic" and described him as "shaking and tottering and drooling like an idiot."

The court record has been used by Seith against him, but Martin-Trigona said he has no intention of trying to clear the record by reapplying for admission.

"I sort of wear it (the denial) as a badge of courage to say I am too honest to be an attorney . . ." Martin-Trigona told this office.

"I would be muzzled. I especially could not fight corruption in the courts because they could yank my license."

He refers to himself as a lawyer, an expert on the law, rather than as an attorney, one licensed to practice. He still can represent himself and take on "public interest" cases.

Martin-Trigona, given to paint himself astride a white charger, said the court record is a "positive force" in his campaign.

"It shows me to be a man of utter incorruptibility," he said.

He said his Selective Service record was improperly introduced. He said he was trying to get out of the draft because his girl friend was dying of a "very bizarre brain condition" and had been entrusted to his care by her mother.

He explained the draft board members' assessment of his mental condition by saying he told them he was suing the President for his conduct of the Vietnam war and would sue them if he were drafted.

As for his charges against other lawyers and judges, he makes no apologies.

"I would offer to prove they are crazy and are corrupt," he said. "But I am running for the Senate; I am not running to prove Illinois judges are crooks and fools."

He said Seith, an attorney, tried to use the court records and "he found they would not sell."

Martin-Trigona has countered with a guilt-by-association attack against Seith.

He says Seith's law firm (but not Seith personally) was indicted for alleged securities fraud.

He also says Seith is chairman of the Chicago Zoning Board, and that the board's chief clerk was indicted for allegedly taking a $50,000 bribe.

He said the court investigated his own "sex life, bankbook and political beliefs" and found nothing damaging.

Martin-Trigona said attempts by Seith to recall his past scrapes with the judges and attorney have only helped him.

"It has given me a spectre that I was the guy they were trying to get . . . , Martin-Trigona said.

He said he would rather be a martyr than an attorney.

Sierra club will hear wolf expert

Gary Schoenberger of St. Louis' Wolf Sanctuary will speak to the Sierra Club about North America's imperiled wolves and other wildlife at the club's monthly meeting on Monday, Jan. 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Alton.

Topic of Schoenberger's talk will be "Wolves and the Critical Problems of Wildlife."

"Most wolves have been exterminated by man," says the 25-year-old Schoenberger. "This elimination of wolves through hunting, trapping and poisoning has been harmful, ignorant, and arrogant."

"Our virtual loss of the wolf is sad," comments the staff member of the Wild Canid Survival and Research Center. "We should look upon the wolf as a friend because we depend upon him."

The wolf handler and wildlife lecturer goes on to say that "the wolf plays a vital part in the chain of life ... his survival is geared in large part to our survival. And in the final analysis, the wolf is a magnificent and beautiful animal."

With the exception of some wolves in northern Minnesota, Isle Royale National Park in Lake Superior, and a few scattered other remnants, wolves have disappeared from the continental U.S.

Wolves are still subject to harassment and controversial hunting in Alaska and Minnesota. Until stopped by court injunction, the Alaska Fish and Game Commission sanctioned aerial hunting of wolves.

Wildlife activist Schoenberger handles most of the educational programs in the St. Louis area for WCSRC — Wild Canid and Research Center. He is also on its board of directors.

Schoenberger is also one of three people in charge of the care and feeding of the sanctuary's 13 wolves. He has toured New York and Ontario with nationally-recognized John Harris and his socialized wolves, "Rocky" and "Mariah."

When Rocky died, Schoenberger wrote "Plea for the Wolf" in Rocky's memory. It has appeared in numerous publications, including those of the Sierra Club. It was also recently read on the Dinah Shore show by actor-environmentalist James Stewart.

The WCSRC is dedicated to saving the wolf and other threatened and endangered species through education, legal action and research.

Wildlife and television personality Marlin Perkins is acting director of the center or wolf sanctuary.

The Piasa Palisades Group of the Sierra Club covers 13 counties of southwestern Illinois. The Sierra Club is an international environmental and conservation organization.

The meeting is open to the public.

Weekend tryouts for East Bank melodrama

Auditions for the East Bank Players' next production, a Victorian-style melodrama, will take place Saturday and Sunday, at the Tri-Cities Area YMCA.

The play, "Egad, the Woman in White, or Sealed in a Madhouse," will be presented in late February or early March.

Area residents wishing to try out for a role are invited to attend the auditions at the Y, starting at 4 p.m. Saturday and continuing until 7 p.m., and from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Callbacks are scheduled from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Anyone wanting to audition for a role in the play, but who is unable to attend the tryouts as scheduled, may call 877-6753 or 931-2853, to make other arrangements.

Gene Cassy, an original member of East Bank, will direct the production. Previously, he directed "Murder Takes the Stage" last year.

Cassy said he is hoping to see some new faces at the tryouts, and noted that audition sessions for East Bank shows are open to the public, regardless of experience.

The East Bank Players is a non-profit community theater group. Its existence depends entirely upon the support of the membership and its audience, Cassy stressed.

Prospective members also are invited to attend the weekend tryouts at the YMCA, the director pointed out.

"The Woman in White" offers many interesting roles for both men and women, Cassy said, "ranging from heroine to the villain with others in between."

Federal income tax deductions revised

By JUDITH G. RHOADES

Many letters received from my readers have contained inquiries regarding changes in the Federal tax laws. For the next few columns I will be discussing some of the significant changes brought about by the Tax Reduction and Simplification Act of 1977.

— NEW STANDARD DEDUCTION: For 1977 and later years, the two-part standard deduction, i.e., the minimum low-income allowance and the percentage standard deduction, which applied in 1976 and prior years, is eliminated. It is replaced with what is, in effect, a flat standard deduction. This flat standard deduction is $3,200 for married persons filing joint returns, $1,600 for married persons filing separate returns, and $2,200 for single persons. Heads of households are entitled to the same standard deduction figure applicable to single persons.

— ZERO BRACKET AMOUNTS: It should be noted that the term "standard deduction" no longer appears in the law. The new flat standard deduction amounts mentioned above are now called "zero bracket amounts." These amounts appear as the lowest tax brackets in the new tax tables and rate schedules, with each such bracket bearing a tax rate of zero (from which the name is derived). Since these flat amounts are built into the tax tables and rate schedules as zero rate brackets, they benefit all individual taxpayers — whether or not they itemize. Taxpayers whose itemized deductions exceed the flat standard deduction amounts may deduct their excess itemized deductions.

— NEW TAX TABLES AND RATE SCHEDULES: Lower rates are in effect. In order to simplify the computation of tax liability and to reflect the new standard deduction figures (zero bracket amounts) and the extension of the general tax credit, the act directs the Internal Revenue Service to prescribe tax tables for 1977 and 1978 that are to be used by taxpayers below a certain income level.

These tax tables will incorporate the standard deduction, personal exemptions, and the general tax credit. The act also adopted the new rate schedules which are to be used mostly by higher income taxpayers for 1977 and later years. These rate schedules incorporate the new standard deduction figures but do not incorporate personal exemptions or the general tax credit.

The new Tax Tables are to be used by individual taxpayers whether or not they itemize their deductions (taxes, medical expenses, etc.). The rates in these tables are based on "tax table income." Certain persons are excluded from using the new Tax Tables. They are as follows: an estate or trust; any individual who claims the exclusion for foreign earned income; any individual who claims the alternative capital gains tax; any individual who averages his income; any individual who computes his tax under the maximum tax provisions on personal service income; and any individual who makes a short period return (less than 12 months) on account of a change in annual accounting period.

— TAX TABLE INCOME: The term "tax table income" relates to the income brackets appearing in the new tax tables. The meaning of the term varies according to whether an individual itemizes or does not itemize his deductions.

For a non-itemizer tax table income is adjusted gross income. Thus, a non-itemizer will simply determine his adjusted gross income and look up his tax liability in the appropriate tax table under the tax table income bracket covering his adjusted gross income amount. No computation of the standard deduction, personal exemptions, or the general tax credit is necessary because these items have already been built into the new tax tables. Because the standard deduction is built into the tax tables, an individual whose itemized deductions exceed his standard deduction is entitled to deduct his itemized deductions only to the extent such deductions exceed his standard deduction. Thus, an individual must reduce the total amount of his itemized deductions by the amount of his standard deduction (zero bracket amount) and then subtract the remaining itemized deductions from his adjusted gross income. The result is the taxpayers' tax table income.

A special computation is required of certain individuals, as described below, to determine tax table income. A married person filing a separate return where either spouse itemizes deductions. Where one spouse itemizes, then the other spouse also must itemize; Non-resident aliens; a U.S. citizen who is entitled to exemption under Code Sec. 931 for income from U.S. possessions; and an individual who meets all of the following conditions: (a) is either under 19 years of age or is a full-time student in an educational institution for some part of five calendar months during the year, (b) may be claimed as a dependent on his parents return, and (c) has any unearned income (dividends, interest, etc.) for the year.

The above individuals follow the same steps as those outlined previously in determining tax table income, but then they must take an extra step to reach their final tax table income. This extra step involves another term which is new to the tax law scene — "unused zero bracket amount."

The zero bracket amount is the same as the taxpayer's standard deduction amount. The unused zero bracket amount is an amount equal to the excess, if any, of the taxpayer's zero bracket amount (standard deduction amount) over his itemized deductions. If there is any unused zero bracket amount, the taxpayer must increase his adjusted gross income by such amount. When this extra step is completed, the taxpayer has arrived at his tax table income.

These changes in the law are necessary because the standard deduction is built into the tax tables and, as required by law, a married person filing separately must itemize deductions if his or her spouse itemizes deductions. The effect is to prevent a married taxpayer filing separately from obtaining the benefit of the full built-in standard deduction when his or her itemized deductions are lower than the standard deduction amount.

A special rule applies to an individual as described previously as meeting conditions (a), (b), and (c). If such individual's earned income exceeds his itemized deductions, such earned income is to be substituted for the itemized deductions in arriving at the final tax table income.

Because of the built-in standard deduction in the tax tables and the law requirement that the standard deduction of a dependent minor or student with unearned income may not exceed his earned income, the extra step or special rule is necessary to limit the taxpayer's deduction to earned income.

Dairy seminar in mid-January

Those interested in learning more about milk production, milk marketing, the dairy outlook, and legislative and environmental issues confronting dairy farmers will attend a special "dairy seminar" sponsored by the Illinois Milk Producers Association Jan. 16-17 at Peoria's Continental Regency Hotel.

Program highlights will include: dairy outlook by Tom Townsend, an official of Mid-American Darymen, Inc.; legislative outlook by Leonard Gardner, Illinois Farm Bureau director of government affairs; and a presentation on livestock waste runoff regulations by Jim Frank, agricultural advisor to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Officials from the American Dairy Association, the St. Louis District Dairy Council, and the United Dairy Industry Association will speak on programs financed by dairy promotion monies.

Illinois Farm Bureau President Harold Steele will address the noon luncheon Jan. 17, speaking on "What Problems Lie Ahead for Our Nation's Dairymen." And Hollis Hatfield of the American Farm Bureau Federation will discuss "how to produce for today's market."

Knee joint—it's basically unstable

By WILLIAM J. GOLDWAG, M.D.

Q. I tore the cartilage in my knee while playing tennis six months ago. I had to have an operation and they took out pieces of cartilage.

The doctor said that after the operation my knee would be as good as new, but it's now four months since the surgery and it still swells up and doesn't feel normal.

Do you think something else could have been wrong? Will more X rays show why I'm still having trouble?

I'm afraid to do any exercise because if the same thing happened to the other knee I would practically be a cripple. Is there any way of preventing a cartilage tear?

A. The most common cause for prolonged recovery from knee surgery is insufficient physiotherapy. This means you need to restore the normal protection that the muscles provide for the knee joint.

Even though ligaments are tough, they are not very elastic so they can't be stretched or twisted without tearing. The powerful muscles and their tendons which cross the front and back of the knee are its major protectors. Any weakness in these muscles allows more strain to be transmitted to the rigid tissues like the ligaments.

The cartilages between the ends of the bones are attached to the ligaments so that certain kinds of twists exerting their pull on these ligaments may tear the cartilage.

It is normal for the joint to swell after the operation and fluid will reaccumulate with walking for a number of weeks after surgery but eventually this stops. As soon as possible exercises must be started again and kept up.

The most important muscle is the quadriceps which is the large bulky muscle composing most of the front of the thigh and attaching to the kneecap by a strong tendon. This muscle functions almost every time the knee is bent.

By sitting on a table and lifting the lower leg until it is straight out horizontal, this muscle gets its best exercise. Doing this 15 to 20 times twice daily restores tone to this muscle. By adding weights to the foot, one can then get strength in the quadriceps and by the time you are lifting 30 to 40 pounds of weight 15 to 20 times twice a day, you will have a well protected knee joint.

It may take six months to a year to restore normal function to the knee but it is far better to do it now than to risk new injury. This same exercise will protect the other knee against all but the most extreme types of motion experienced in most sports.

Tennis, because of the frequent twists of the body while the foot is fixed to the ground gets to be a particularly hazardous sport with regard to the knees and requires more conditioning than most people achieve.

Q. My grandfather is 76 years old and has always been in good health except for a cigarette cough. He has coughed for as long as I can remember.

About three months ago he started to cough up some blood — not a whole lot but little clots of it when he coughs really hard.

I try to get him to go to a doctor but he absolutely refuses, just says it's from straining hard when he coughs. Of course, he won't stop smoking either.

I realize there's no way of knowing exactly what's wrong but I read so much about cancer and I'm afraid that's what he has. I know he'll never have an operation.

Is it possible that it is only from straining?

A. Of course it's possible but rather unlikely. Blood vessels don't break that easily in that location unless they break in other areas also, or there is a bleeding tendency from something affecting blood clotting. In those cases bleeding from the gums is common and even in your grandfather is possible especially if his gums are infected, inflammed or abnormal in any way.

Blood from the nose or sinuses can also drip down into the larynx and be coughed up.

Growths on the larynx can bleed but more commonly cause hoarseness also.

There is a wide variety of ailments of the lung associated with coughing up blood but the more frequent ones in his age group and smoking habit include tuberculosis, bronchiectasis, emphysema and tumor. Tuberculosis, although less common than years ago is not unusual especially in the older age group. Sputum tests will help greatly in determining if this is present.

Bronchiectasis is a condition in which infection in the lung destroys some of the air sacs and results in widening of the tiny bronchial tubes and tendency to produce a lot of sputum often with blood, and small infected areas of lung and scar tissue.

Emphysema results in stretched, ballooned out air sacs and causes shortness of breath as its major symptom.

Malignant tumors are more common in smokers and are also a strong possibility.

X ray of the chest would help greatly in pointing to one or the other although it might not give any definite answers. Without some tests to know what treatment to give but for whatever comfort it gives, there are other possibilities besides cancer.

For the protection of others he comes into contact with, some simple tests to rule out tuberculosis would be essential especially if small grandchildren are ever around.

No major shortage of storage space for grain

(Press-Record Washington Bureau)

An anticipated severe shortage of space for storing grain — as a result of bumper crops and low prices — has not materialized.

A U.S. Department of Agriculture economist, Jim Naive, says, "In terms of both on-farm and off-farm storage, it is being handled much better than expected.

"There was very little problem getting the wheat under cover. The same is generally true of the feed grains — corn, soybeans, sorghums, oats and barley.

"The wet season stretched out the harvest so that we did not get in as much as fast as we thought we would. And we know there has been a lot of on-farm storage built this year."

Concerned with the possible shortage of elevator space or other storage facilities, the USDA has a loan program to aid in building on-farm grain bins.

The USDA also recently changed the duration of the loans in an effort to move this year's crop out before the next year's crop comes in.

"We think we have handled the crop much better than anticipated," Naive said.

"That is not to say you won't see grain stored outdoors or see piles of corn."

Naive said there have been some spotty instances of storage shortages, but that this should not present a problem if sales are sufficient that it can be moved indoors during January.

If there should be another bumper grain crop, and this year's crop does not move well in the marketplace, Naive said there could be a problem later in the year.

He said there could be a space shortage in 1978 if there are three or four consecutive weeks of dry weather next fall during the harvest season and all the crops start coming in at the same time.

One offsetting factor, however, is an expected decline in this year's winter wheat crop.

Winter wheat, which represents about three-fourths of the total wheat crop, is expected to be down about 13 percent from last year.

Both the USDA and private industry are concerned about improving the quality of the mountains of grain that are in storage.

Cargill, Inc., an agricultural marketing firm based in Minneapolis, Minn., reports U.S. growers have stockpiled enough wheat, 2.4 billion bushels, to meet the bread needs of the nation for more than 12 years.

Henry H. Kaufmann, director of grain research for Cargill, said that, ideally, farmers should store grain in professionally-managed elevators equipped to deal with such problems as molds, insects and weather.

"If farmers cannot or do not choose to do that, it is essential to get grains off the ground and into areas that can keep temperature and moisture levels relatively constant," he said.

Kaufmann's laboratory, a scaled-down grain elevator, is the only privately-owned facility in the U.S. devoted entirely to discovering new ways for caring for stored grain.

Among systems developed there are devices for measuring temperature changes in stored grain — an early earning or spoilage or infestation of insects — an aeration system, and a probe that checks the quality and nutrition of grains.

He says one area of investigation that may hold promise is underground grain storage.

Laboratory research shows mold growth is minimal between 45 and 55 degrees Fahrenheit, and ground temperatures below the frost line remain just under 55 degrees all year, Kaufmann said.

The USDA also is conducting research at its Manhattan, Kan., center into the handling of mold control and high-moisture grain, primarily corn.

Dr. Lyman S. Henderson, a member of the USDA's research staff at its Beltsville, Md., research center, said the USDA has experimented wih underground storage in several foreign countries and found it does help prevent molds and insects.

But grain storers in the U.S. have not shown any great interest.

"It has never been a matter of appeal to the storage people," he said, "because it is an expensive proposition."

Pontoon cuts spending for street jobs

The Pontoon Beach Village Board met in special session during the weekend to authorize bidding for a new village police car and to amend the motor fuel tax ordinance, revising the street resurfacing program.

The motor fuel tax change reduces the amount to be spent on resurfacing village streets from $132,000 to $70,000, but still includes all village streets not considered low-income area streets.

Community Development grant funds will pay for resurfacing streets serving low-income areas.

The Saturday meeting was called after the board failed to muster a quorum for last Thursday night's regular meeting. The board will next meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 10, at the village hall.

ROBERT HARTENBACHS NAME DAUGHTER LAURA

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hartenbach, 4814 Marywood Drive, Spring, Tex., have selected the name, Laura Beth, for their second child, who was born Dec. 26 at Houston Northwest Hospital.

The new arrival weighed eight pounds, four ounces. She has a brother, Christopher John, 2 years.

Mrs. Hartenbach is the former Miss Beverly Jackson, daughter of Mrs. Edna Jackson of Granite City and the late John R. Jackson.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hartenbach of Town and Country, St. Louis County.

Re-elected business agent

Thomas K. Grady has been re-elected business agent of Local 50 of the International Chemical Workers Union, which represents about 1,000 employees at the blast furnace department of Granite City Steel.

Grady won his second consecutive two-year term by defeating Frank Ronco for the business agent position. Also elected were Robert Lowe in his first term as vice-president; Alan Young in his third term as financial secretary; Louie Farenzena in his first term as guard, and Lonnie Sherfy for his second trustee term.

All were elected for two years, except Sherfy who will serve three years as trustee.

HOW CAN GENERIC DRUGS SAVE YOU MONEY?

Generic drugs can generallly be purchased from the manufacturer at a lower cost than the brand name. In some cases, 50% less than the brand name drugs. Even with our everyday discount prescription prices this can translate into a meaningful dollar amount.

WE CARRY ONLY THOSE GENERIC DRUGS THAT WE CAN DISPENSE WITH COMPLETE ASSURANCE IN THEIR QUALITY AND EFFICIENCY.

Yes, both prescriptions are the same substance, same quality, same effectiveness. All of our generic drugs are made by reputable, nationally known manufacturers. We set strict standards of quality and effectiveness for every generic drug we carry.

DISCUSS GENERIC DRUGS WITH YOUR DOCTOR.
